What is life? Life is a never-ending chain of events. While some events go on and on, others terminate. As some occurrences cease, others are created. Life at Lee in the 1981-1982 school year was full of new situations. A new air-conditioning system, along with ceiling fans, was installed in the fall. The Student Council donated new carpeting for the library. In an attempt to make an improvement of the campus surface, a cleaning company was hired. Also, the Key Club began the Alumni Garden. The historic parking problem took a new twist: any student could park in the south parking lot on a "first come, first serve" basis, while the east lot remained a faculty and staff parking lot for the second year in a row. The Lee students learned to accept new situations in stride as each instance occurred.

New feelings were surging throughout the country. The election of Ronald Reagan to the Presidency indicated a more conservative outlook for the future. Another indication — the television. More educational shows were added to the viewing selection, while violence and sex were toned down in many shows. Trouble brewing in the mid-east alerted Americans: they felt a new concern for their safety in the immediate future.

Statewide, teenagers who finally reached the “magic” age of eighteen were forced to wait one more year to become “legal” according to a new state law. This arose a question within many Lee students: how can one be old enough to go to war, but not responsible enough to drink alcoholic beverages?

Locally, a heated mayor's race attracted a new attention to the polls on Election Day. As the country accepted new beginnings, Lee High School did also.

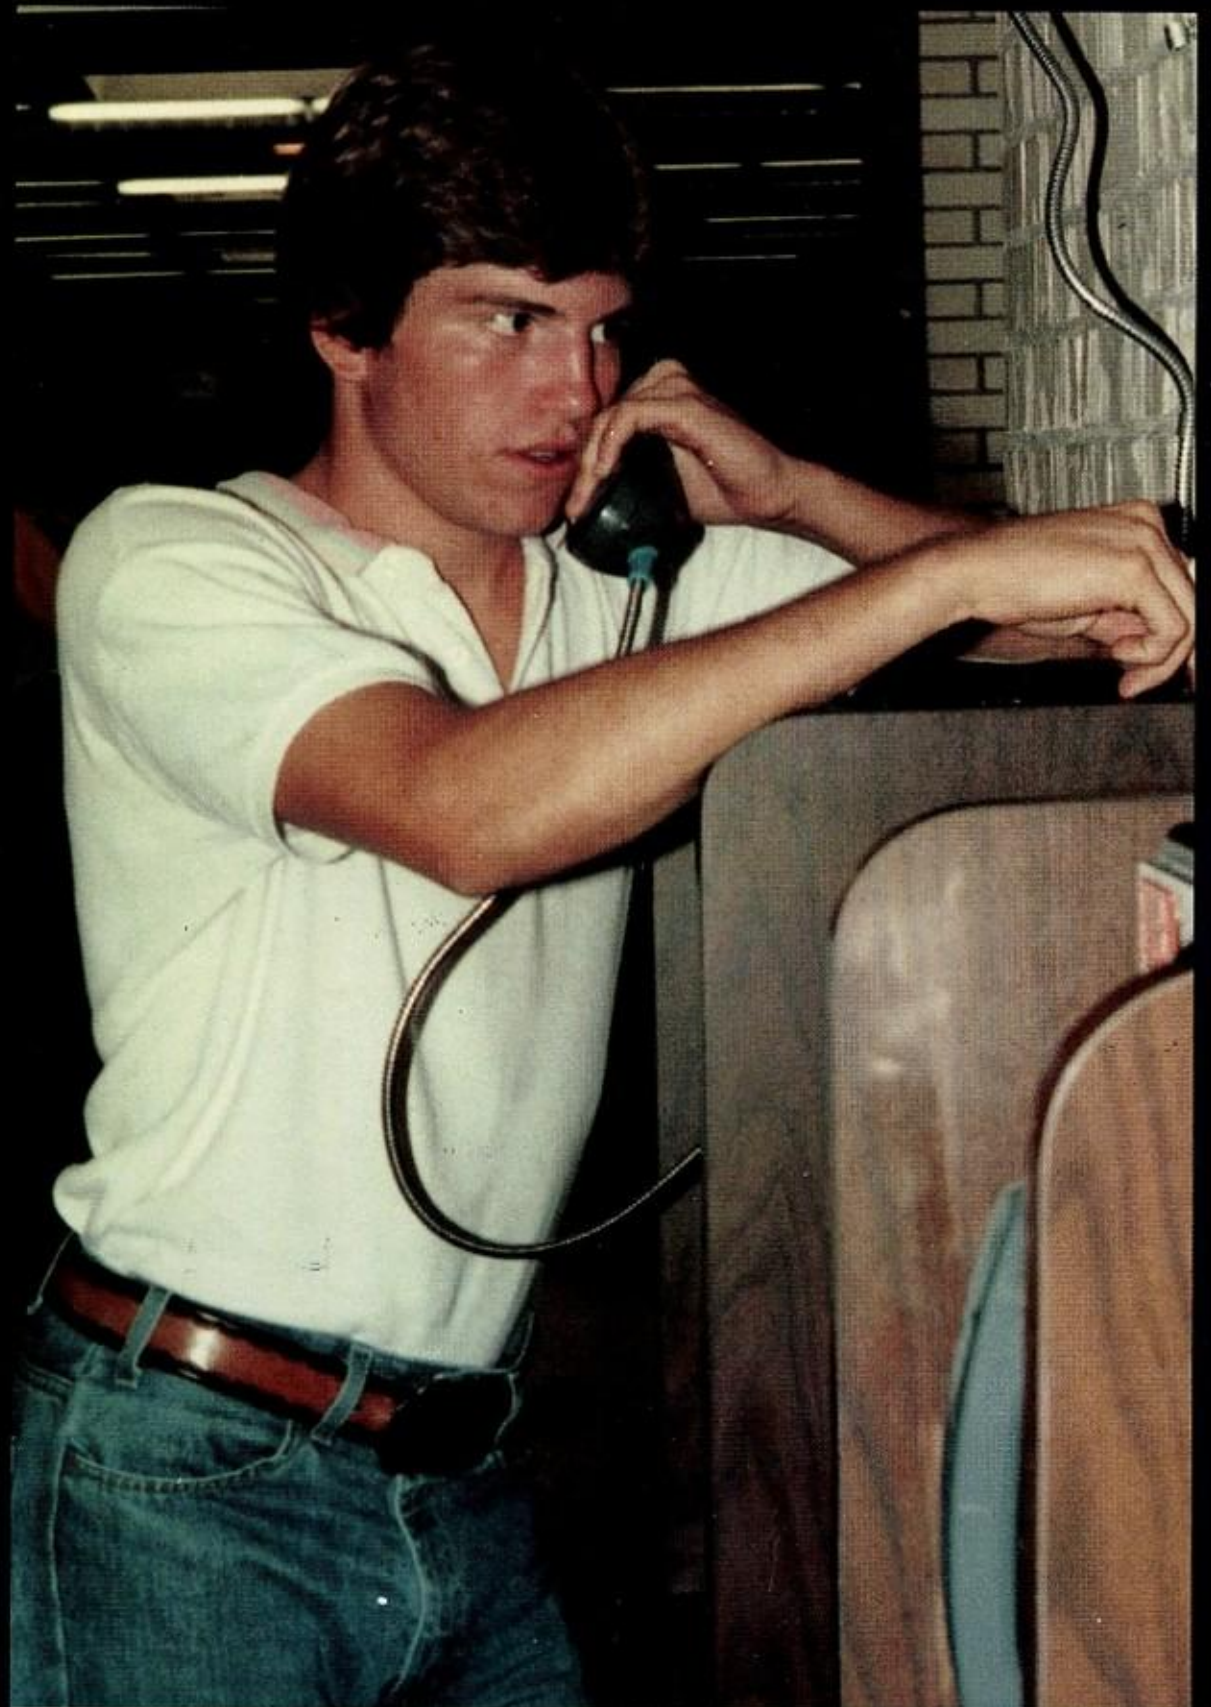

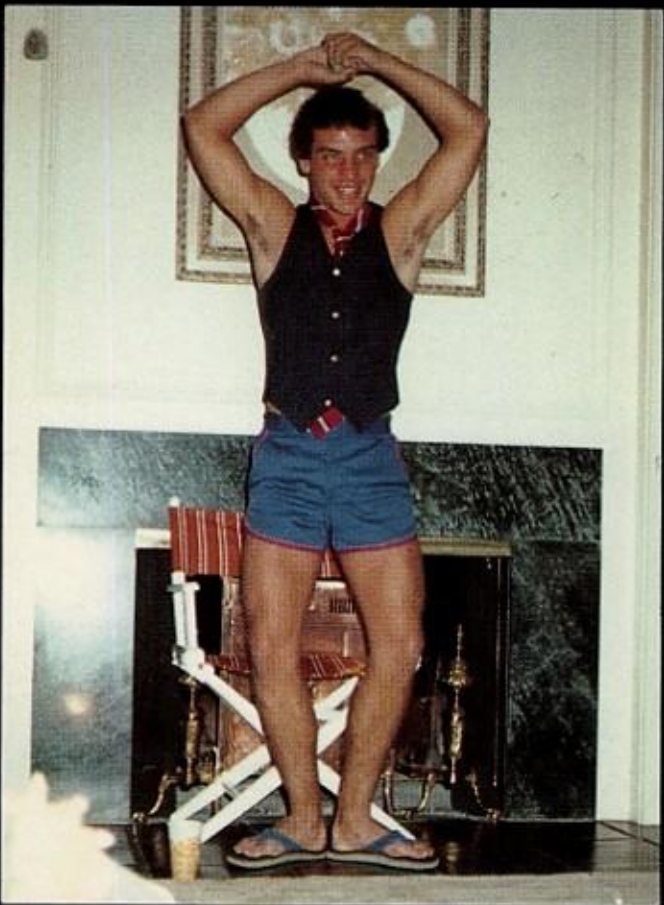

Students at Lee remained busy outside the classroom as well as inside. Teenagers dedicated much of their time outside the classroom to club activities and to plain, ordinary fun. Many students at Lee held jobs, played sports, cultivated hobbies, or worked on some other activity.

The Christian Student Union, Young Life, Campaigners, and other religious groups supplied outlets of relaxation and thought. These good times enabled students to form close friendships and lasting relationships with others.

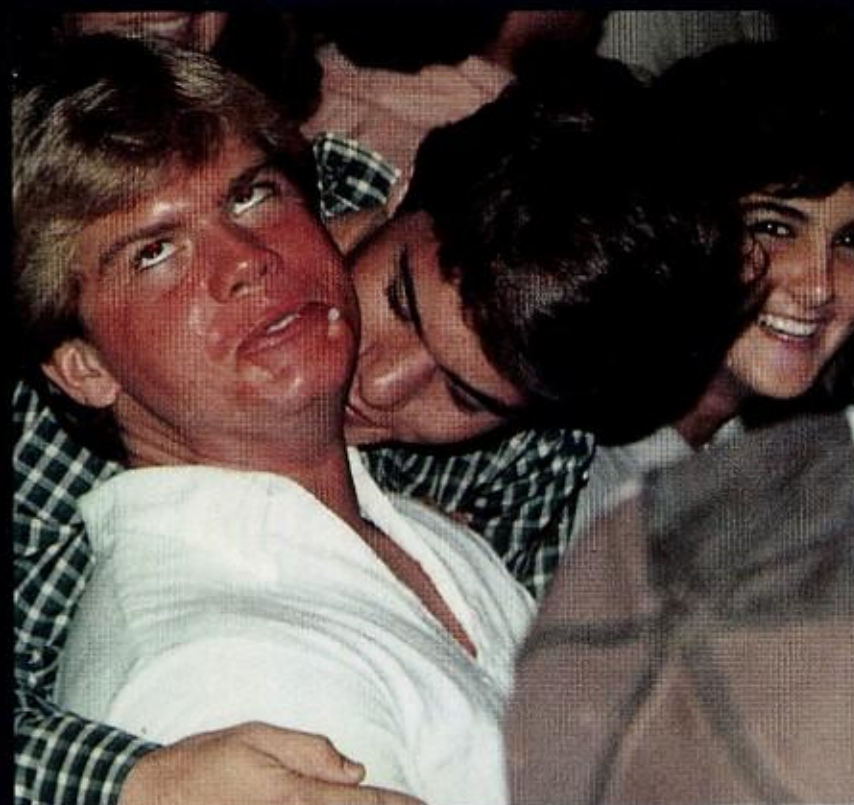

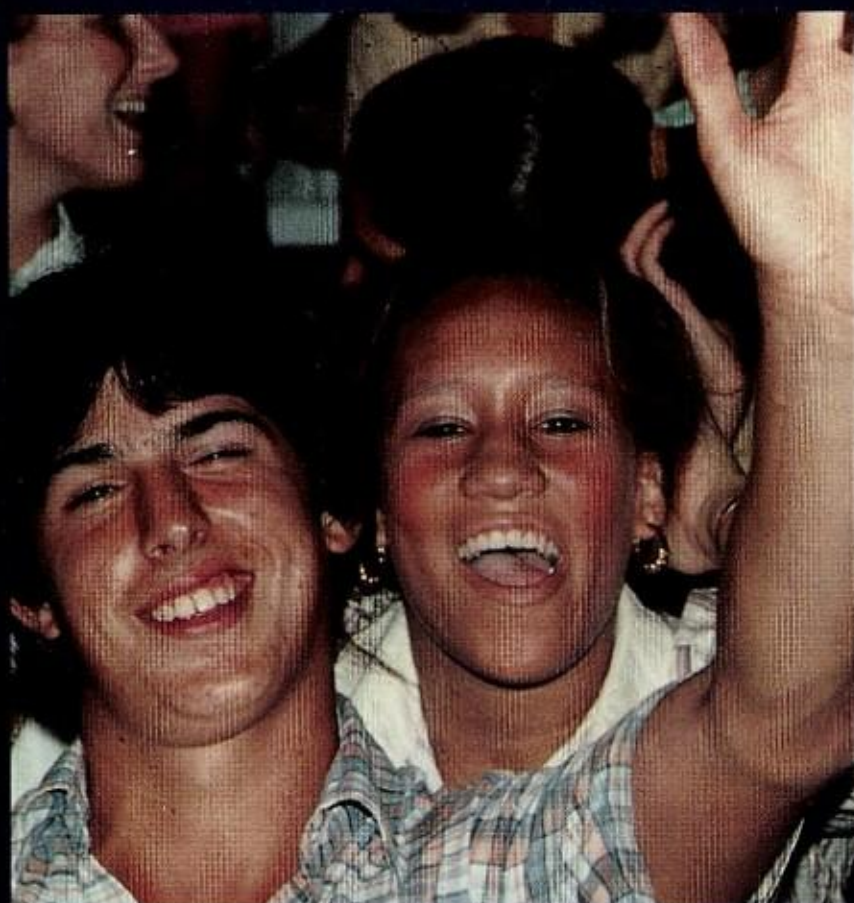

As Fridays approached, one item was the topic of all conversations: "What is going on this weekend?" The most common reply to this question — partying! Whether it was a formal, a theme party, or just an ordinary "bash," fun times were insured. School functions such as Homecoming and the Prom offered a wider variety of entertainment. As colder weekends approached, surfing and sunning days ended. Concerned with a further education, students "road-tripped" up to visit their favorite college during the fall and winter weekends. With all these activities going on, the Monday morning discussions included details of the previous weekend's events.

Since the new state law closed bars to eighteen year olds, teenagers everywhere had to search for new forms of entertainment. Lee students turned to restaurants — such as "Houston's," to movies, and rock concerts.

With such diverse forms of entertainment, students at Lee had no difficulty "going wild," and never had "nothing to do."

During the football season, General pride was at its peak. Spirit gained momentum during pep rallies and became contagious at the games. Whether one was a spectator or whether one was a member of the team, everyone participated. Although Lee had a slow season, the memory of a team will live on and final scores will be forgotten. Support of Lee's athletic groups was displayed by groups such as the Spirit Committee, the General Guard, the Lieutenants, the General band, the ROTC, and the cheerleaders.

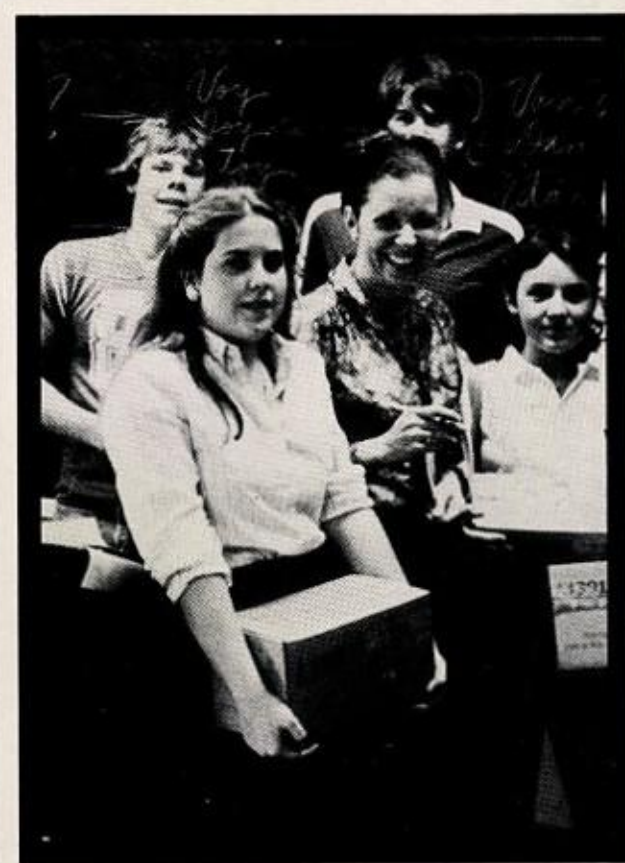

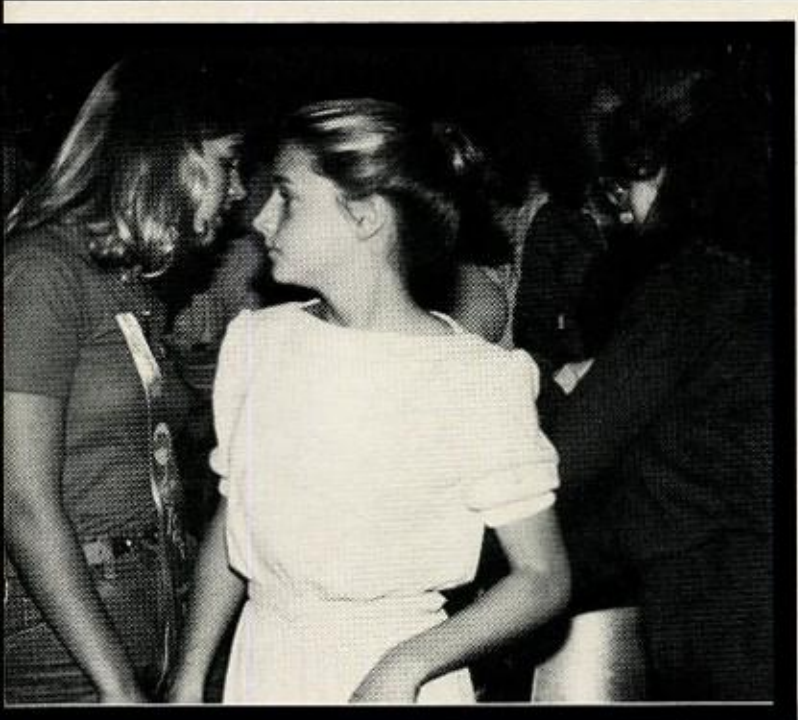

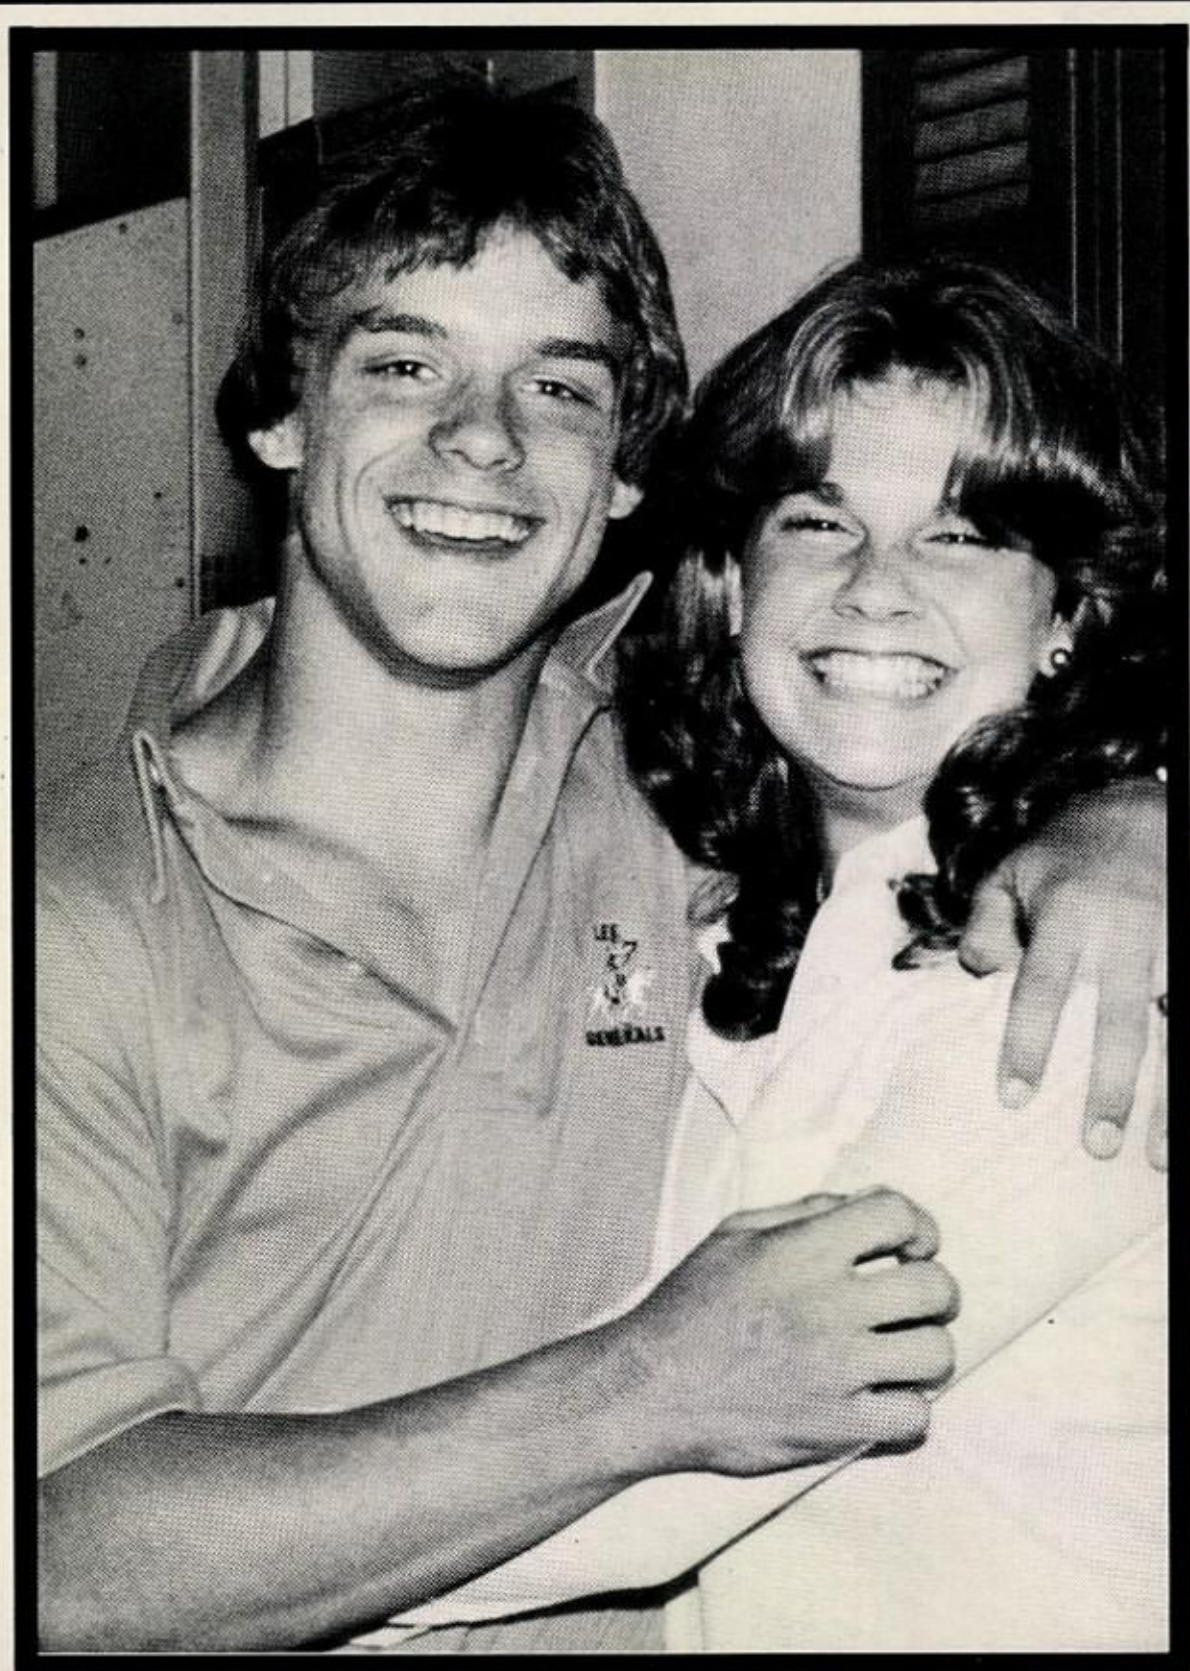

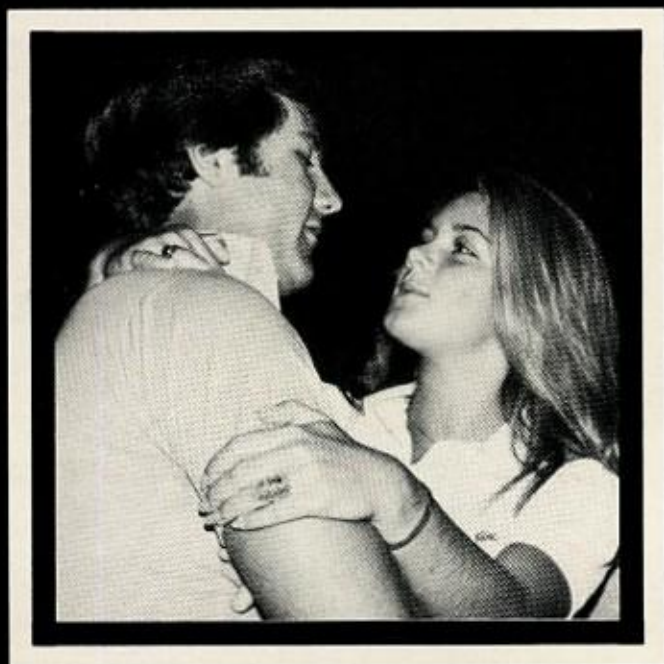

General spirit was flying high as Homecoming Day — November 6 — approached. The long hours spent making floats and costumes for the parade finally paid off. The parade route around the track once again worked extremely well. According to the sponsor of the parade — the Student Council — this year's parade was one of the best ever.

Although Lee lost the game to Worthing by a thin margin of two points, the spirit was never low during the game.

Favorites

Although each individual at Lee had distinctive characteristics, certain students set themselves apart from the masses. These students deserved the respect and the admiration of their peers. The Most Handsome and Most Beautiful were determined by student leaders, faculty members, and professional judges. Those with exceptional charm and personality were elected as Most Popular by the students. Based upon leadership qualities and scholastic ability, Most Representative students were chosen by the faculty. Certain activity groups elected their own queens, sweethearts, and beaux. These prominent students earned the right to be remembered as unique for their desirable qualities.

Activities

Numerous activities at Lee furnished an outlet from the tensions of academic work. School clubs, athletics, parties, and friendships were major sources of fun for Lee students. School activities provided an opportunity for interaction within the student body. Involvement outside the school gave students a chance to apply book knowledge to life experiences. For each student the balance of work and pleasure varied; each experience, however, had influence upon the character of the student. Everyone had a chance to participate in activities. Students found that becoming involved was the only way to experience life. Memories for the future were generated through each incident.

Already Starting School

Summer drew to a close, the carefree fun began to fade away, as the doors of Robert E. Lee opened once more for another school year.

The Freshman entered confused yet determined, the Sophomores and Juniors, returned to their regular routines, while the Seniors began to pave their way toward future plans.

Even though the beach parties and "blow outs" were restricted to the weekends, Lee students still managed to retain a summer feeling on and off campus.

Right: Looks like Lee Ann Gilbert, Laura Cruz, Dinane Ingraham, Michelle Sax, and Janice Henry aren't going to get their dog bones for good behavior from their masters, Elizabeth Baier, Krista Bodine and Jo Anna Meyer.

Angie Ghazzaly makes certain that Jimmy Podaris doesn't play the field except during the games when she can keep an eye on him.

Alright June Rogers, Lee High School wants to know: "Who's the apple of your eye?"

Below: Joyce Jolley and Ellen Buie have always been taught not to eat with their mouths open, but Cheryl Baylor knows that you have to put the food in sometime.

Lower Left: The nicest things come in the smallest packages, demonstrates a bow-tied Melanie Barzilla.

Lower Right: "Don't look so surprised, even date kings don't get a date every weekend," states Al Nance to a disbelieving, disappointed Michael Moore.

We Feel the General Spirit All Over

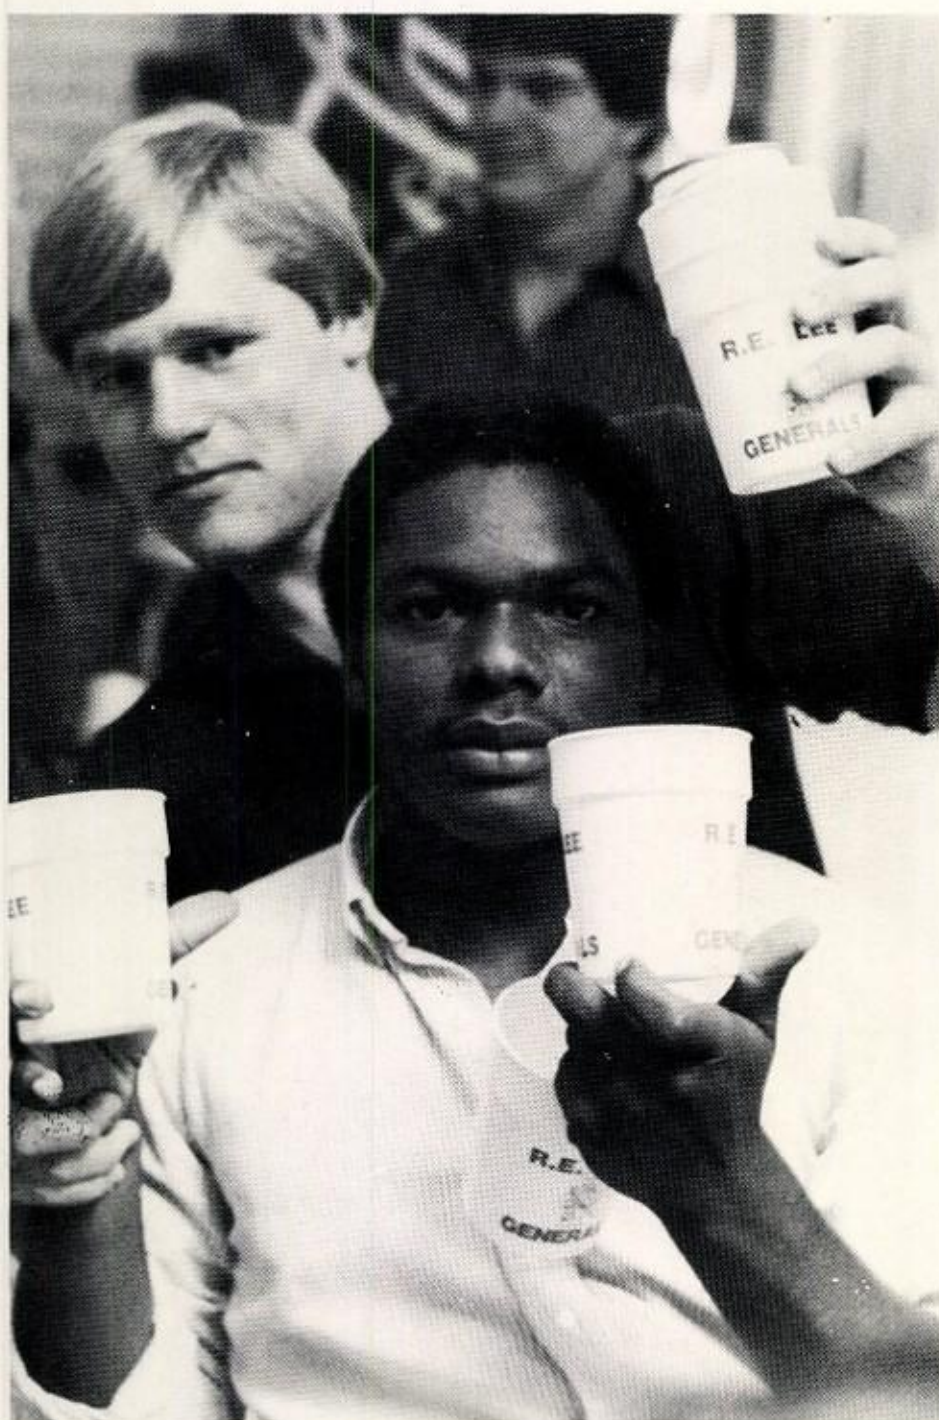

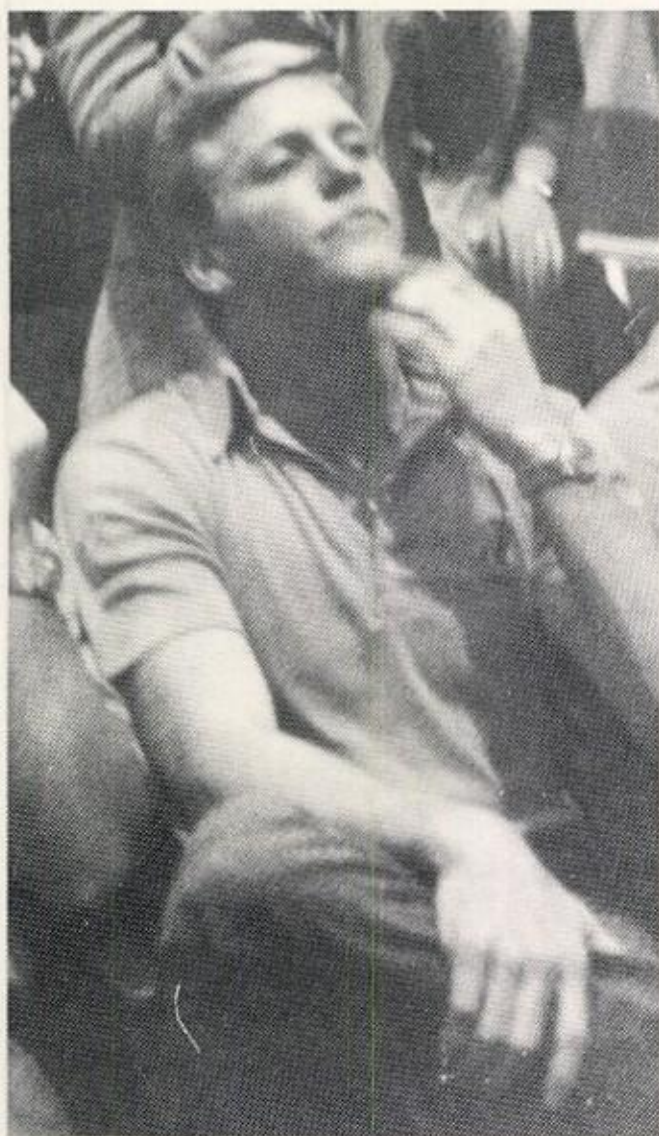

Top: It may be raining, but Spirit Committee members' spirit always shines.

Above: M. T. Herring begs, "Please, can we buy some popcorn?" as her not so daring friend, Diane Deshazo, closes her eyes for the answer.

Right: Becky Hayes dreams of her greatest American hero; but little does she know, he's the greatest freshman zero.

Above: "They're all so cute, I just couldn't turn them down," cries an ecstatic Kathryn Herring, as she puts Trey Lamair, John Oesch and Derek Jones head and shoulders above the rest.

Top: People may huff and puff, but they won't touch a hair on monstrous Jeff Paine's chiny-chin-chin.

Upper Right: What more can we say . . .

General Spirit Is Never Drenched

Plagued with injuries, the 1981-82 cheerleaders had a very tough year. Through changes in their routines and other adjustments, the cheerleaders managed to still deliver the enthusiasm and excitement which kept the Lee Spirit at its highest.

The cheerleaders of 1981-82: Kevin Gilliland, Smoky Mountain, Steve Bailey, Kenny Womack, Amy Marshall, Anne Cummings, Lisa Polski, and Patty Moore led an outstanding year regardless of the misfortunate and untimely injuries.

Homecoming, Sweet Homecoming

Lee's 1981 Homecoming took place on November 6. The festivities began early in the day with the parade, in which the Key Club float stole the show.

Later that night, Lisa Polski was named homecoming queen while Melanie Barzilla and Sharon Edmonson were designated as runners-up.

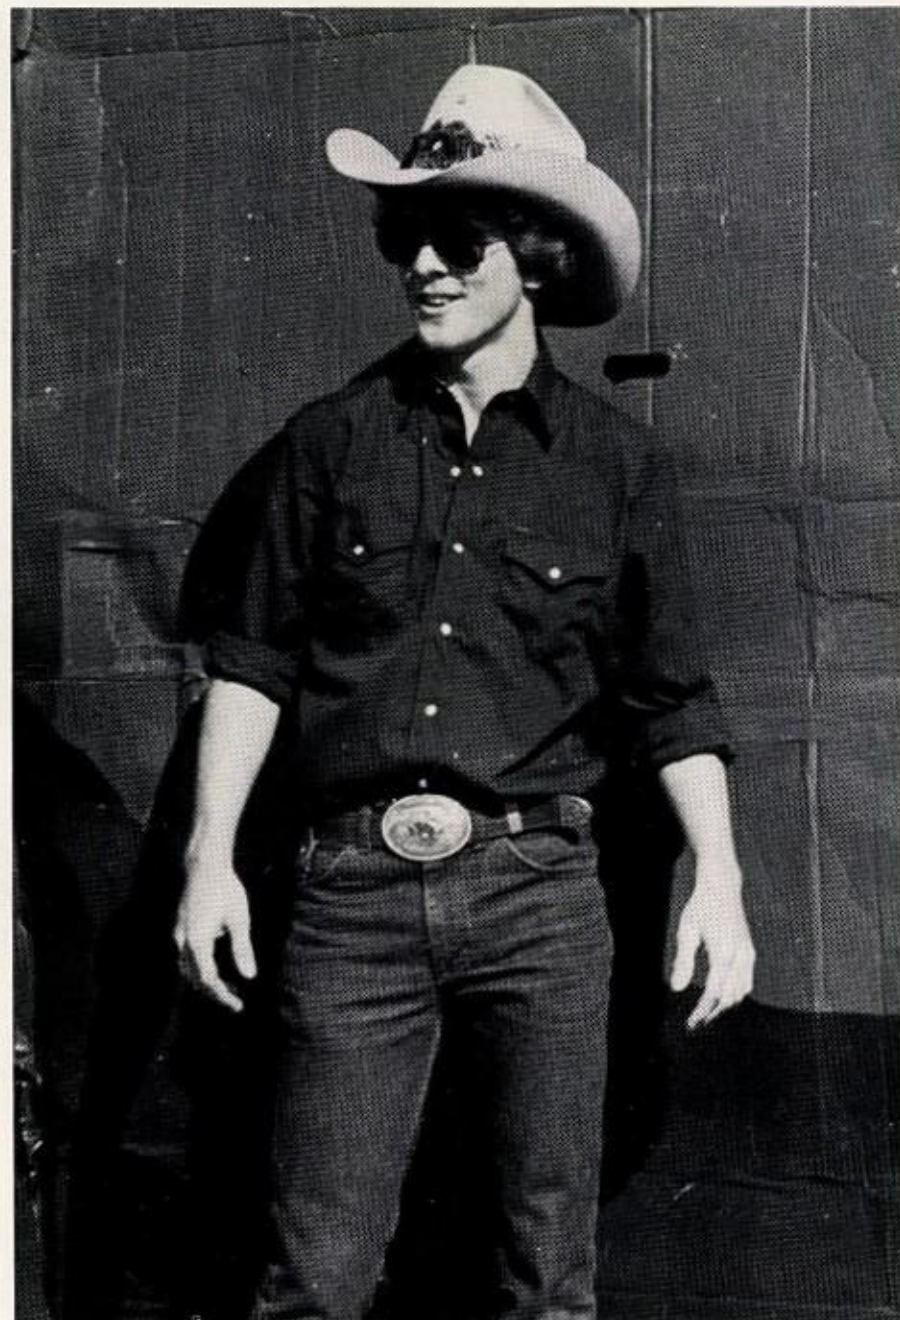

The Generals were defeated by the Worthing Colts, by a score of 12-10. However, that didn't seem to ruin the night for the many Lee spectators.

Right: Kemp Jones is all dressed to be a cowboy, but what happened to his bull?

Above: The J.V. football team's spirit flies high, even though they were not allowed to participate in the parade.

Right: Since we didn't get into the parade we decided to retaliate with our own form of "poison á la hamburgers," grin Fred Johnson, J. C. Howell, Burke Butler, Derek Jones and Graydon Laguarda.

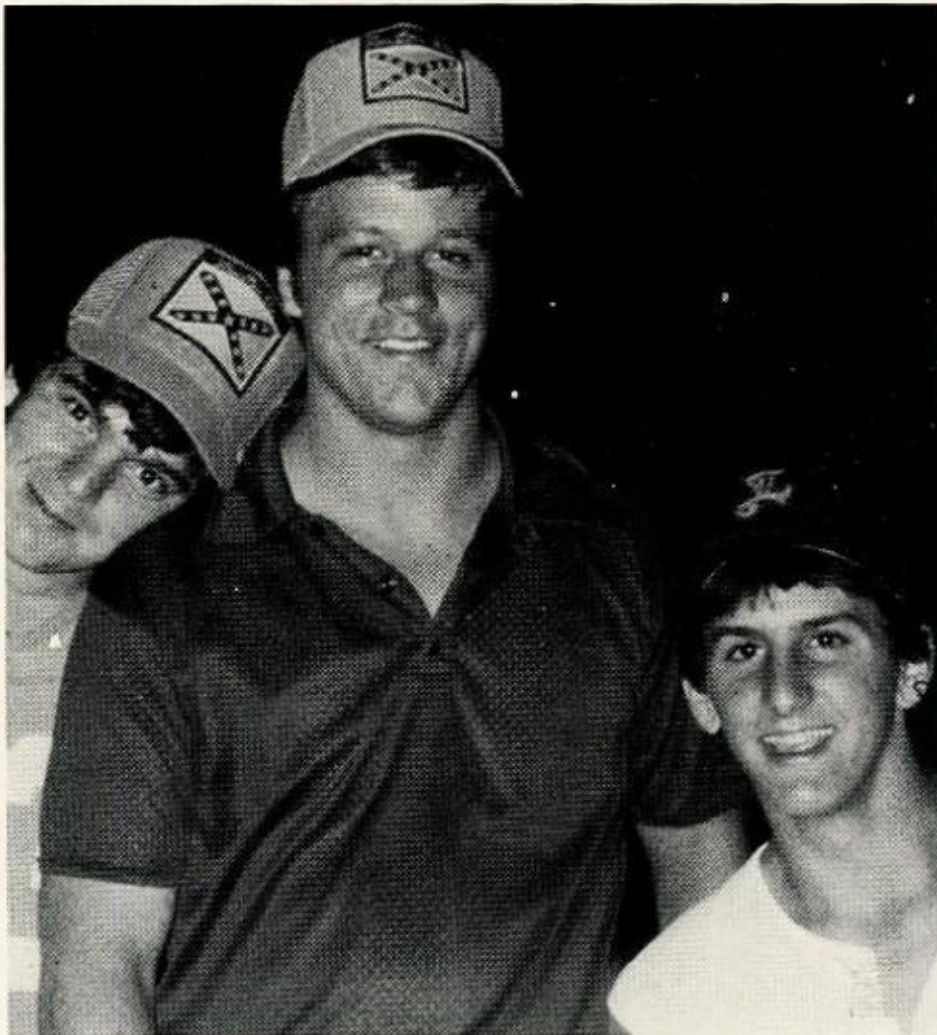

Middle Right: "Pam, you are such a wonderful date; this mum really goes nicely with my new low cut shirt," compliments Tom Workman to Pam Poindexter.

Bottom Right: Micheal Moore spells relief — W-A-L-K-M-A-N, as Jimmy Podaras tries to serenade him.

Below: "See, Pauli-bear, when we grow up, we wanna be just like you," oogles Joe Yannetti and David Cook as they confront their hero, Paul Hostak.

Old Smokey

Top Left: Rick McConn is afraid to let his cute date Jeff Paine go, for fear that someone might steal him.

Top Right: "Ms. Countee . . . I told you I had to go to the bathroom," sighs a "relieved" Laura Cruz.

Above: Johnny Keith smiles knowing that Bobby Mulvey will move his hand if Bobby knows what is good for him.

Left: Tracy Campbell comes to the aid of Greg Hartwell as he blows his whistle for help from a camouflaged Julie Grubbs.

If My Friends Could See Me Now

Bottom Left: "Maybe if we smile they won't notice us!" exclaim a made-up JoAnna Meyer and Krista Bodine as they pose with their new dollies.

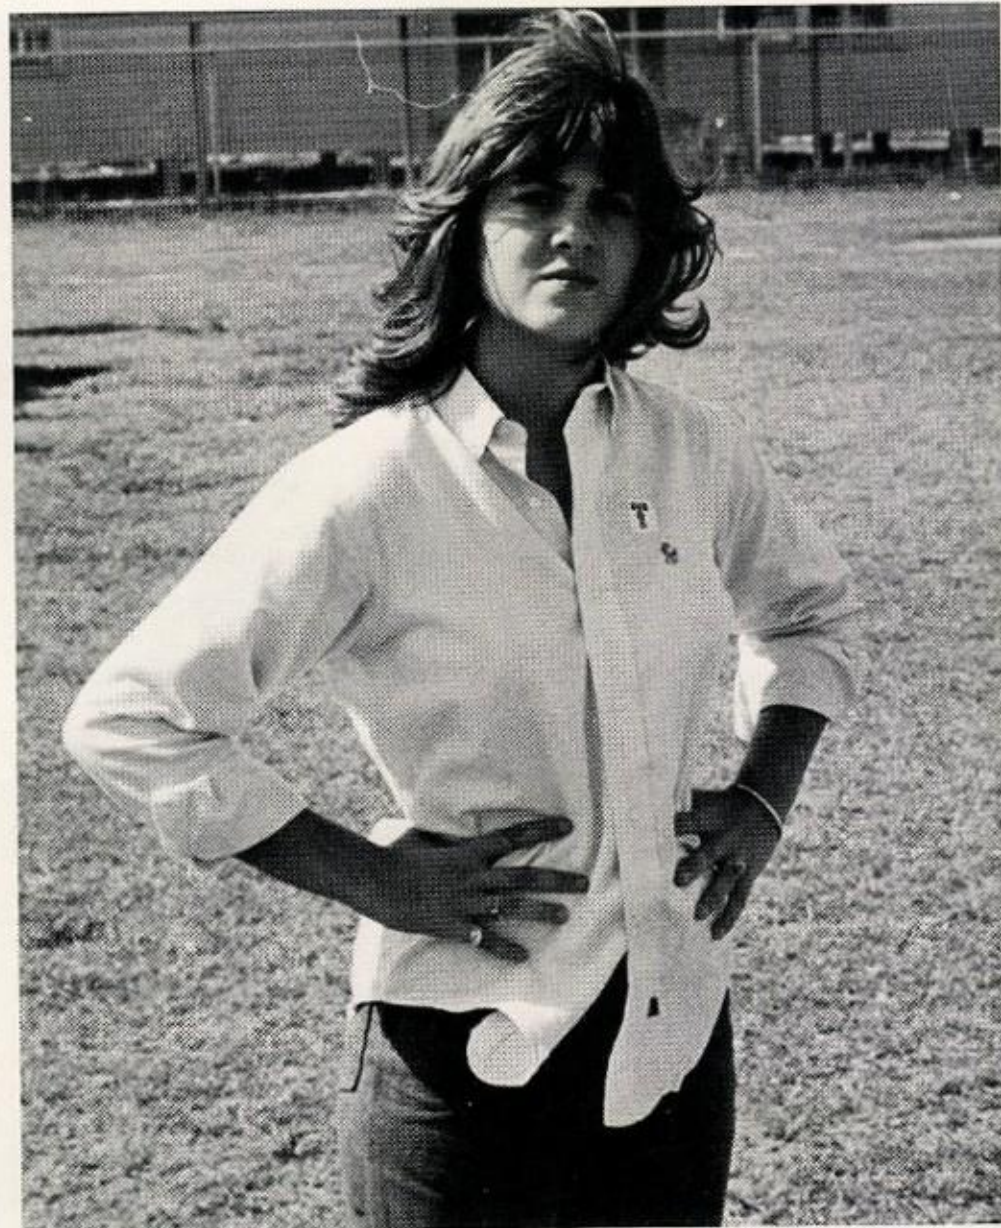

Right: "I thought when you played the field there were supposed to be boys?" questions a distressed Kim Coleman.

Below: "Alright boys, you got me this time," surrenders a bewildered Mr. Cook, after being caught going out to lunch.

Left: Suzanne Navarro discovers that it is often wise to keep her mouth shut.

Let's Groove Tonight

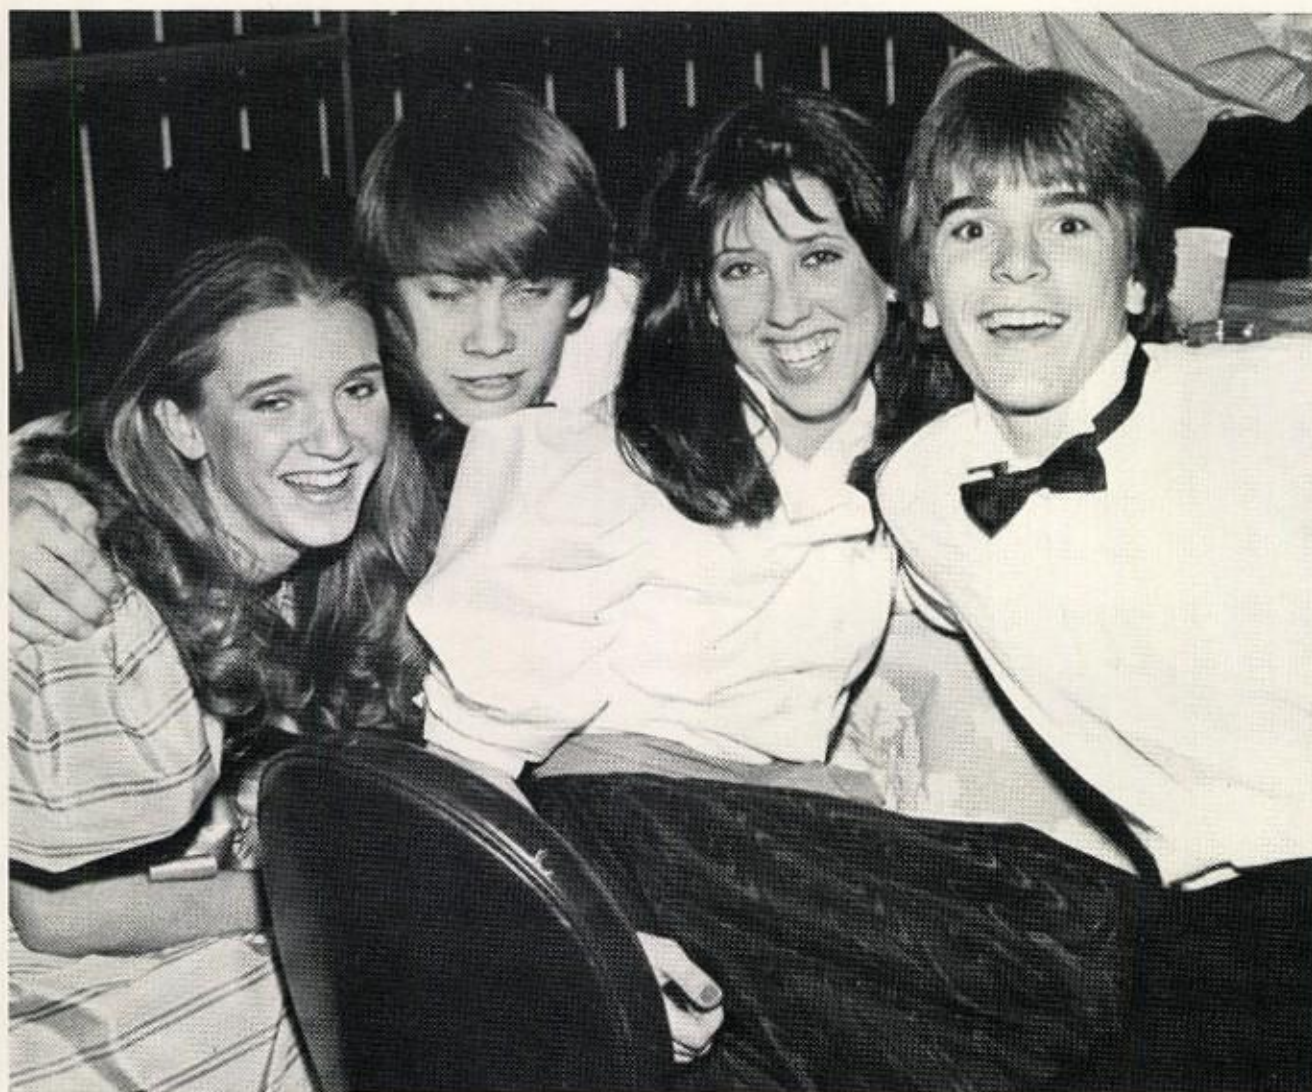

Above: "Turn out the lights, the parties over," sings Johnny Barzilla as Stephanie Edwards willingly agrees.

Top: Scott Prince, Burke Butler, Shelley Wilson and Marc Morrow hope that by hanging around Julia Suffield they might be mistaken for juniors.

Right: Is David Cook whispering just "sweet nothings" in Ria Butler's ear?

Above: An overprotective Tim Phillips states, "Touch my sister, and I'll kill you." as he reassures Romona Phillips that she has nothing to worry about.

Top: Daphne Brauer and John Satterwhile are all pooped out, but Kim Robert's and Matthew Cooley's night has just begun!

Left: Tracy Campbell can't believe her best friends, Debbie Boyarinoff and Mary Finnegan are that desperate for companionship.

There are many opportunities at Lee for students to perform before live audiences. The Talent Show is put on by students hoping to have a stage career. Razz-M-Tazz is a select group of drama students who perform at Lee and other schools. Three choral groups give Lee continuous entertainment. Their Christmas and Spring shows are always enjoyable.

Right: Andy Fickman will do anything to get in the limelight, but this is taking things too far.

Bottom Right: Diane Hunter and Eric Hancock cringe with embarrassment as they suddenly realize they are over dressed for the occasion.

Below: Come on Phillip Tutton, Stu Howell and Grant Kennedy may not sing like Waylon, but thats no reason to turn your back on them.

The Show!

Life at Lee Is Incredible!

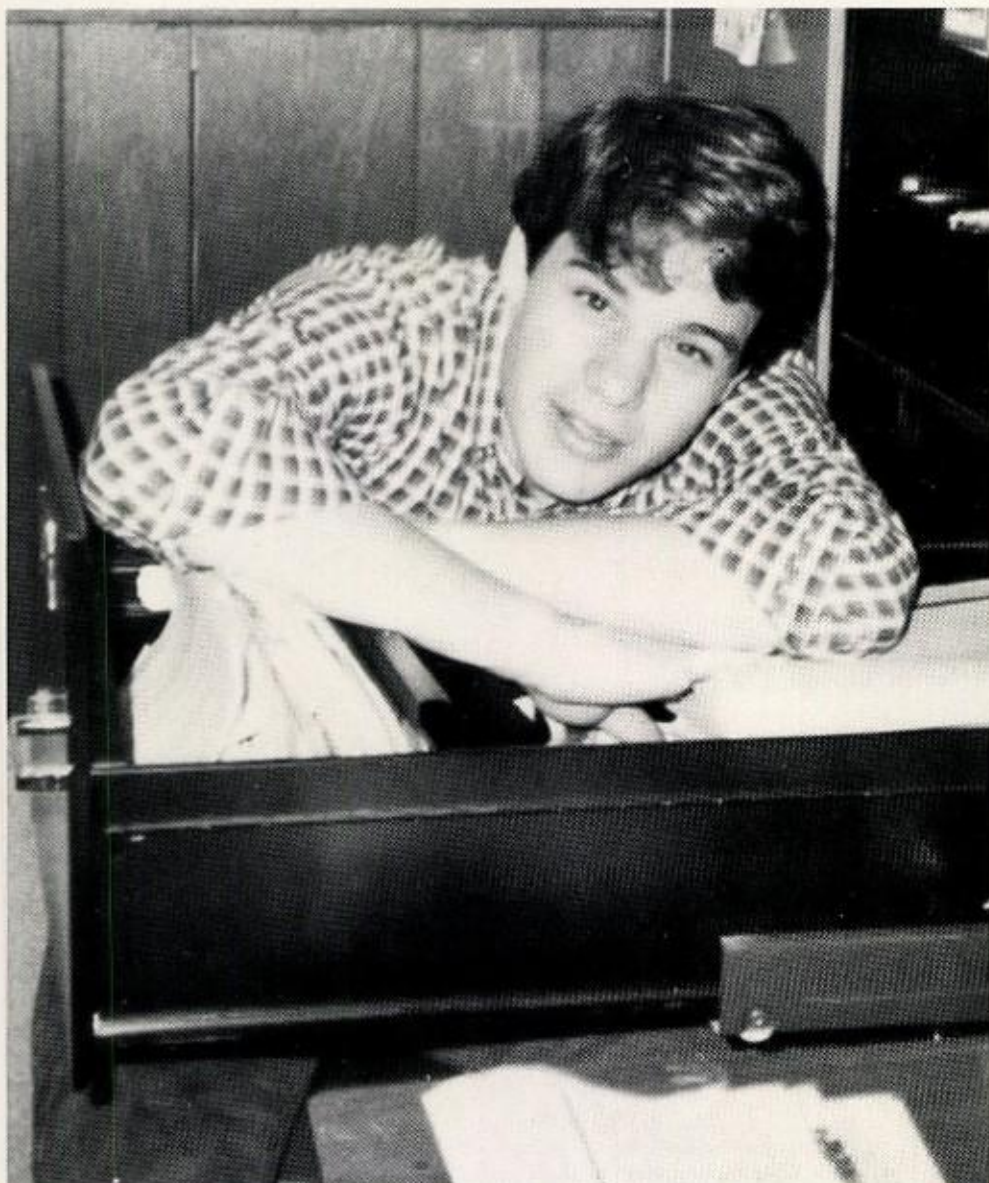

Above: "Oh no, not you again," sighs Brittany Rouse, as she prepares to be photographed for the 9th time in one day.

Right: Strother Simpson strains his eyes to see over his friends shoulder, but Tom Long knows that you don't learn anything from cheating, so he quickly covers his paper.

Top: Janet Fischer threatens her classmate Renee Tamborello, that if she turns around again, she will punch her out.

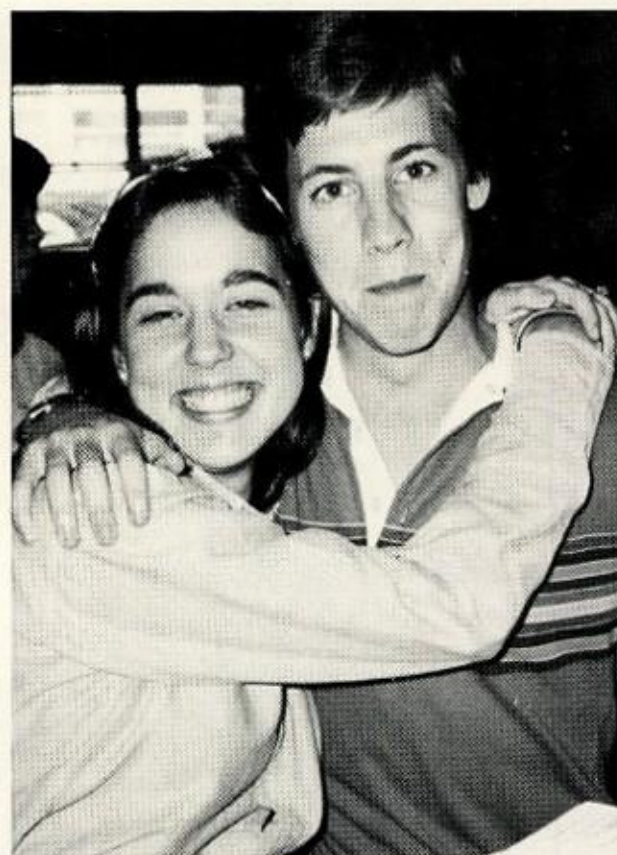

Left: Jimmy Bailey tries to file himself under "Z," so he can get some sleep.

Lower Left: While making a date with Julie Baginski, a fickle Tom Workman cannot keep himself from making eyes at the cute girl in the corner.

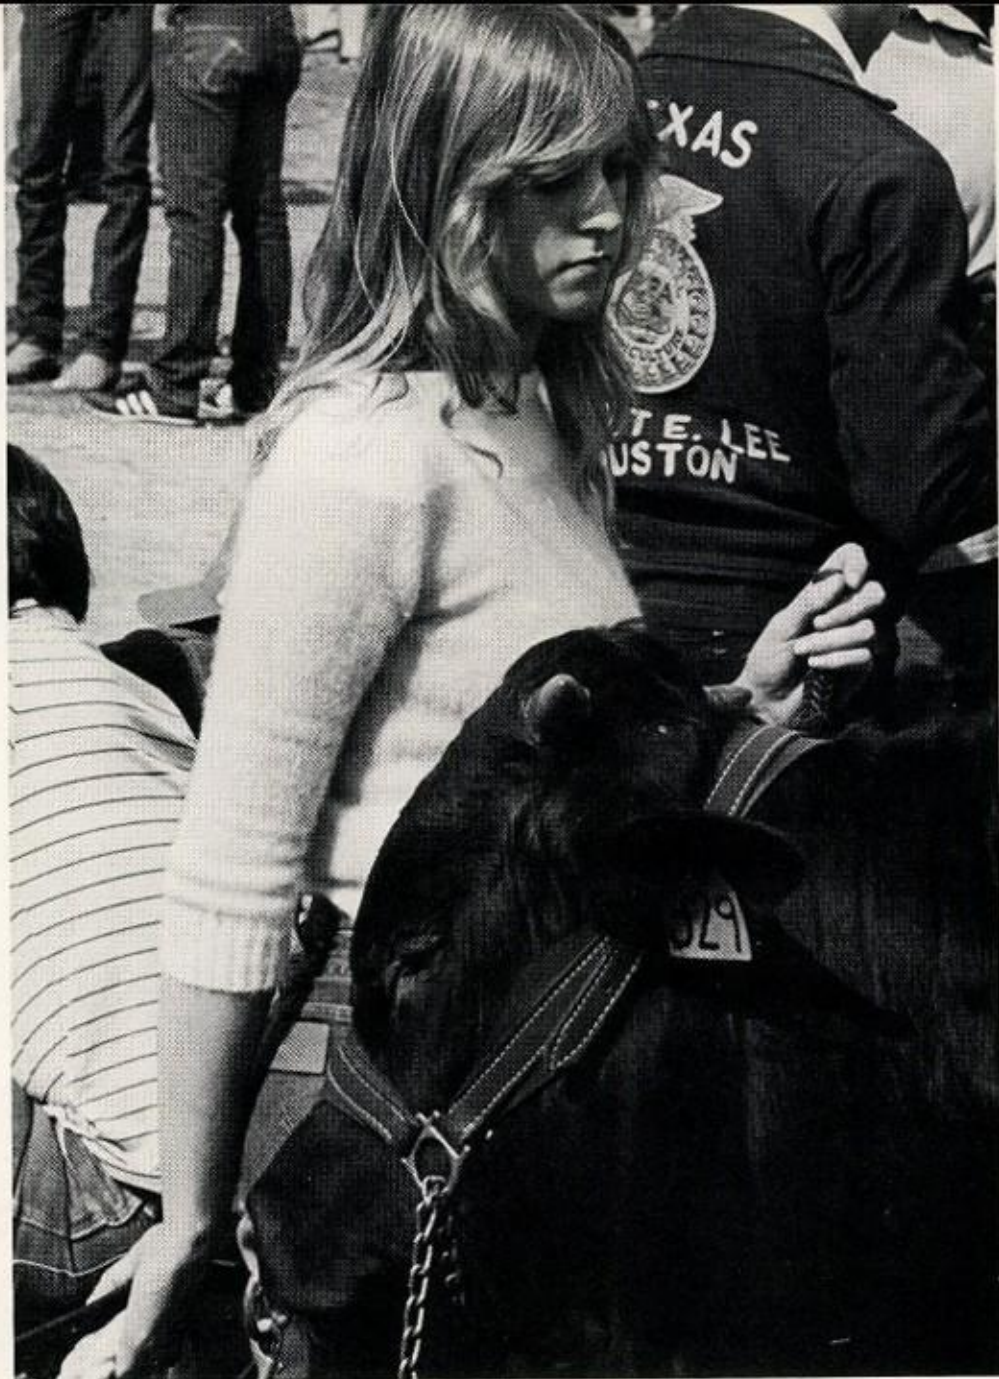

Lower Right: Mike Morey keeps his lips sealed for fear of breaking this magic moment in which Kathryn Herring has been compelled to put her arms around his neck.

Right: "It's all a matter of taste," says Michele Heathcote, as she prepares to kiss the cow.

Lower Right: Liz Pipkin keeps her mouth closed, feeling confident that her horse can speak for itself.

Below: Mike Shavlan and Paul Hostak are standing around shooting the bull.

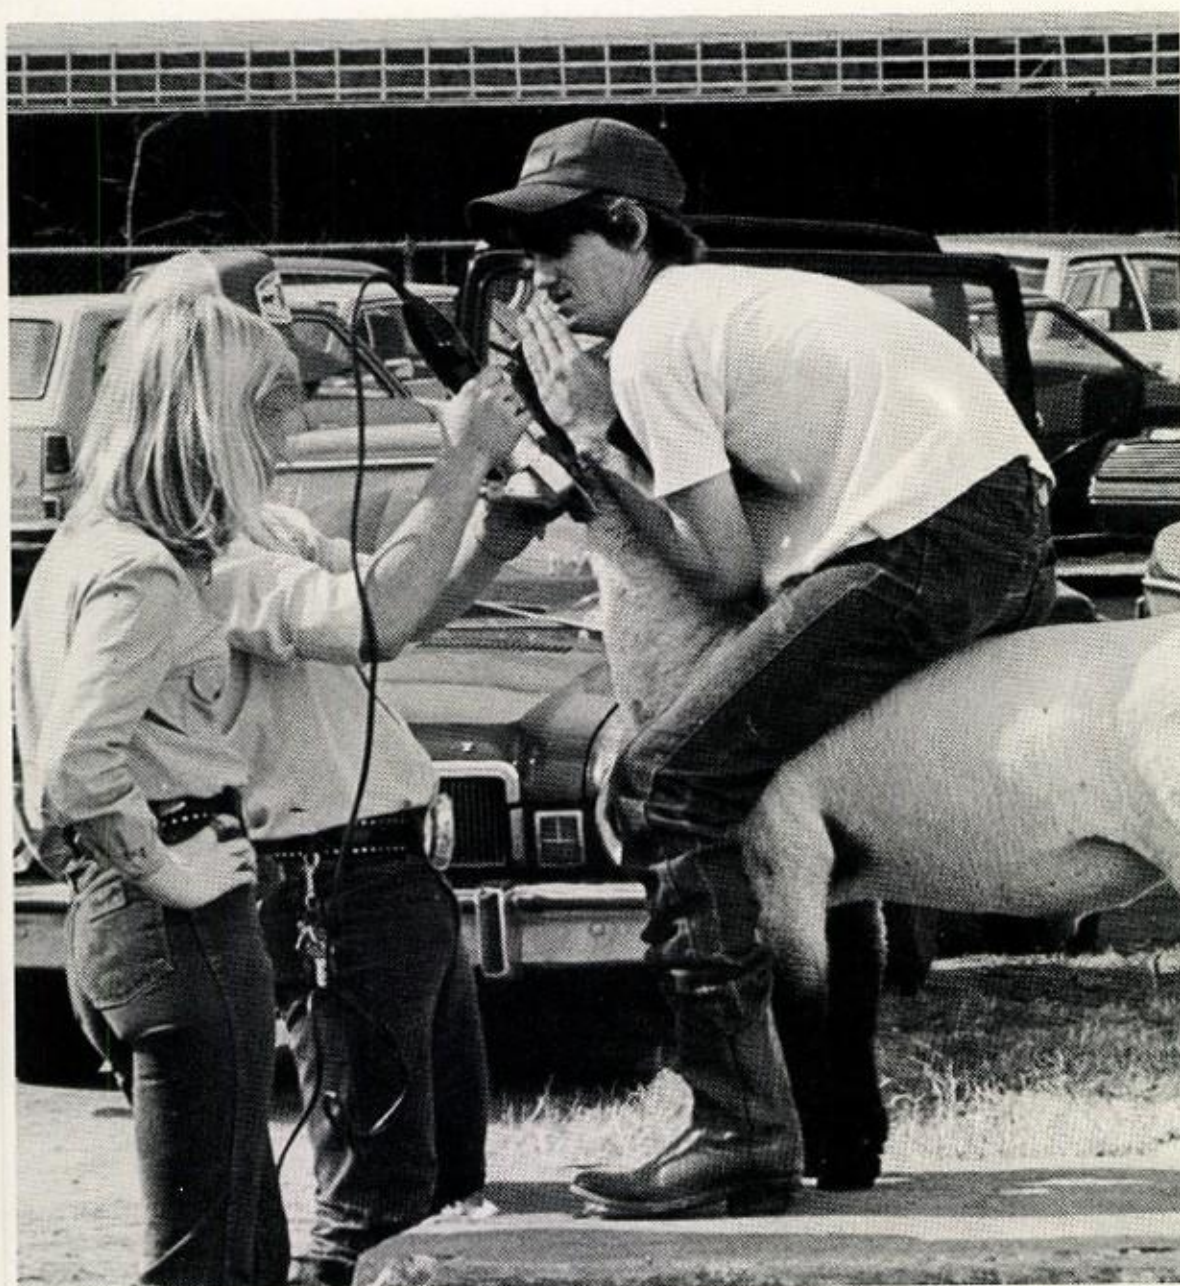

If We Could Talk to the Animals . . .

Upper Left: "If you show me your rabbit, I'll show you mine," Monica Wiemer says cautiously to an uninterested David Cook.

Left: Guy Becker exclaims, "Shh, don't let her know she's being sheared; I only told her she was coming in for a wash and blow dry!" while Kim Pair and Robert Barnard begin their work.

Heart to Heart

Right: Sexy Seniors stick together, for lack of male companionship.

Bottom Right: Irene Taylor and Annie Pomare seem quite content with their flowers, while Brenda Leake thinks she deserved more than one.

Below: Phyllis Henry wonders what is wilting her flowers.

Left: A conservative David Andrus decided he'd wait until prices went down before he would buy Linda Polski flowers.

Lower Left: Flower girls, Margaret Curry and Beth Wilson believe that only they know they sent those flowers to themselves.

Below: Jennifer Varga and Annette Nesensohn are satisfied with the roses their boyfriends sent them but Miller Harrell is puzzled about what happened to his.

Scapino!

Once again the Fine Arts Department unveiled the Spring play, this year's production was "Scapino," a dramatic comedy.

The play was directed by Ms. Linda Shuler with assistance from Rod Nichols for the set. Many hours were spent rehearsing and building sets in preparation for the play.

The hours paid off, and the show went on with a great success.

Right: Marissa Gianetti and Danny Teel are happy again because their deodorant didn't go on wet and sticky.

Below: Sheila Plaisance gets down on her knees to pray that one day she might be a senior.

Lower Right: "You toucha my car, I breaka you face," warns Italian Andy Fickman as his car is being towed from Chi-Chi's.

Left: The Scapino cast has mixed reactions to the suggestion that Andy Fickman might consider staying another year at Lee.

Lower Right: Caught totally off guard, Tim White, Patty Moore and Kim Von Eiff, reach for a measly source of protection between them and the camera.

Below: "Do we have anything in common besides our ties?" question Jimmy Podaras, Tim Phillips and Joe Yannetti.

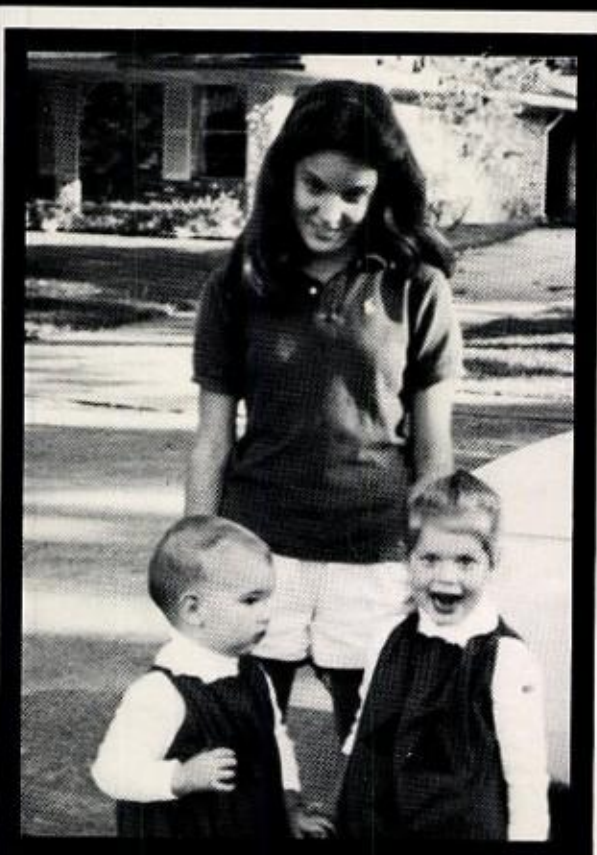

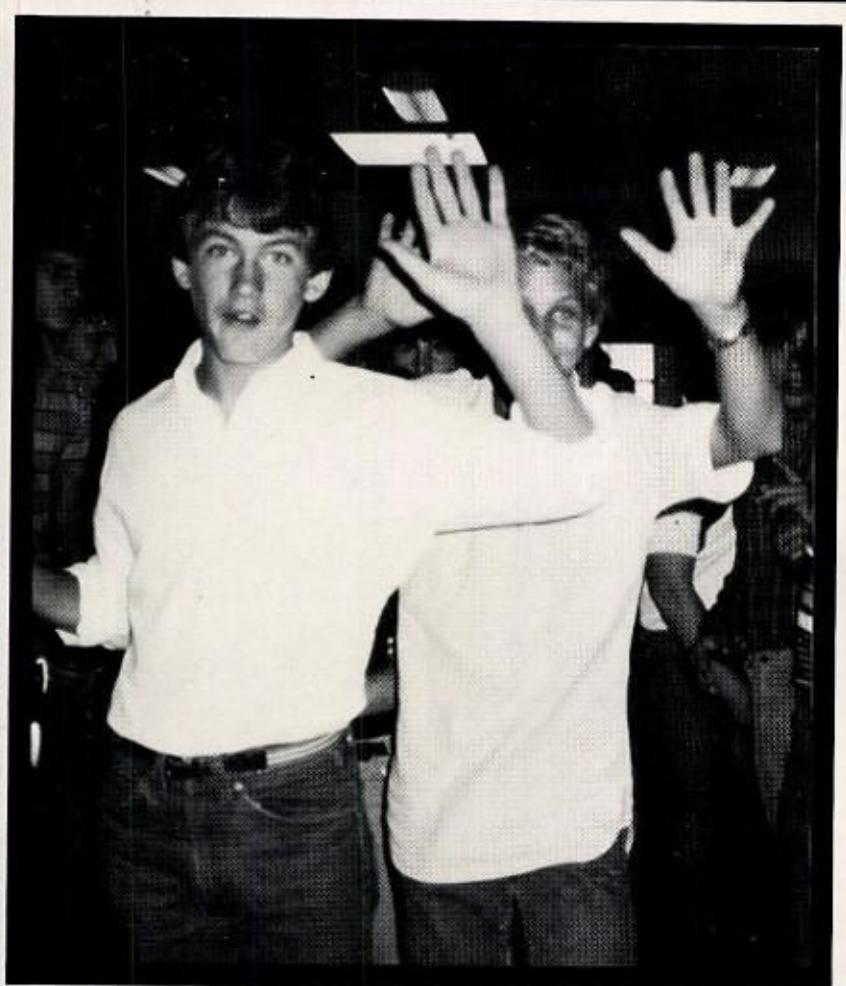

Young Leaders

As always at Lee, the activities were stimulated and guided by a certain, select few. The "cream of the crop" outlined Lee's direction and character. Such trendsetters accepted roles of responsibility to represent and to motivate others. Strong wills and determined minds were necessary to "make it all tick."

Demonstrating intelligence, dedication, composure and sensitivity, the young leaders at Lee set the pace. Whether they were chosen by their peers or whether they were selected on the basis of their own personal achievements, the young leaders of Lee emerged. Students who were politically inclined or academically outstanding were honored with a club leadership, an award in certain studies of interest, or an award for superior scholarship. Those few who had such special skills merited the admiration of their peers. These dedicated individuals who set the pace of activity probably possessed the potential to become leaders of the future.

Club Leaders Set Standards

Club presidents displayed exceptional qualities of leadership, devoting enormous amounts of time and energy to making their respective organizations successful. These devoted students helped establish club goals and inspire members to achieve them. Such young leaders exemplified positive character traits and provided a model for all other students.

Thirteen superior students were distinguished early in the year because of their excellent scores on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, which they took as part of the PSAT in their junior year.

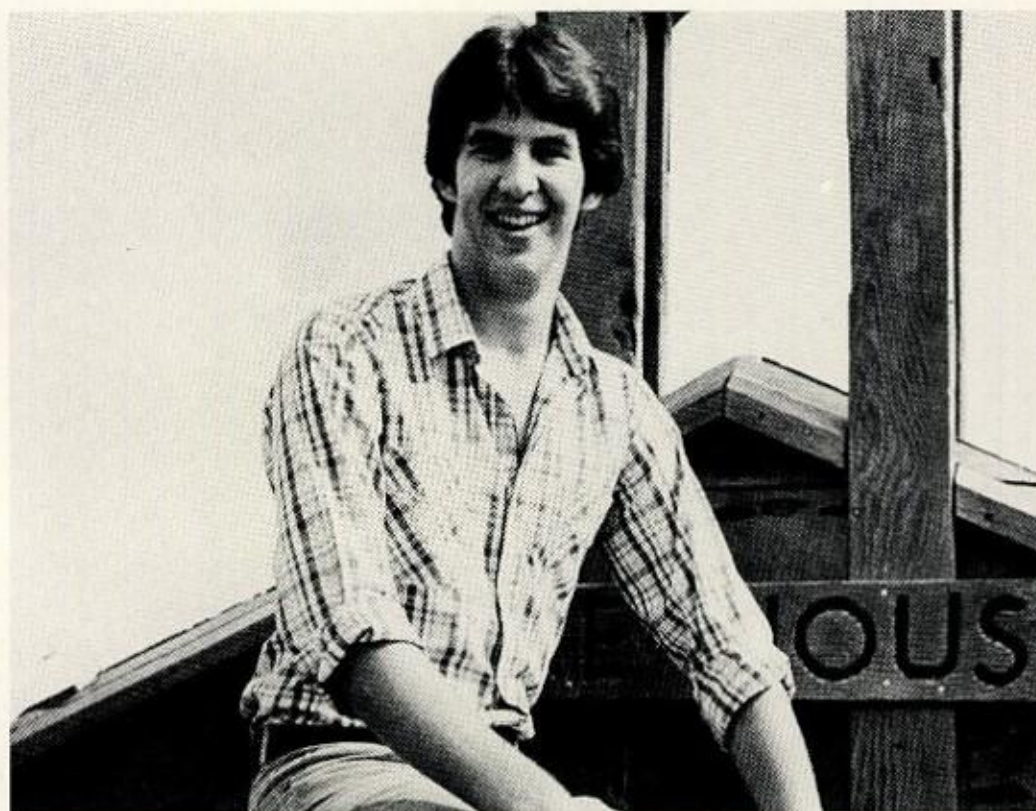

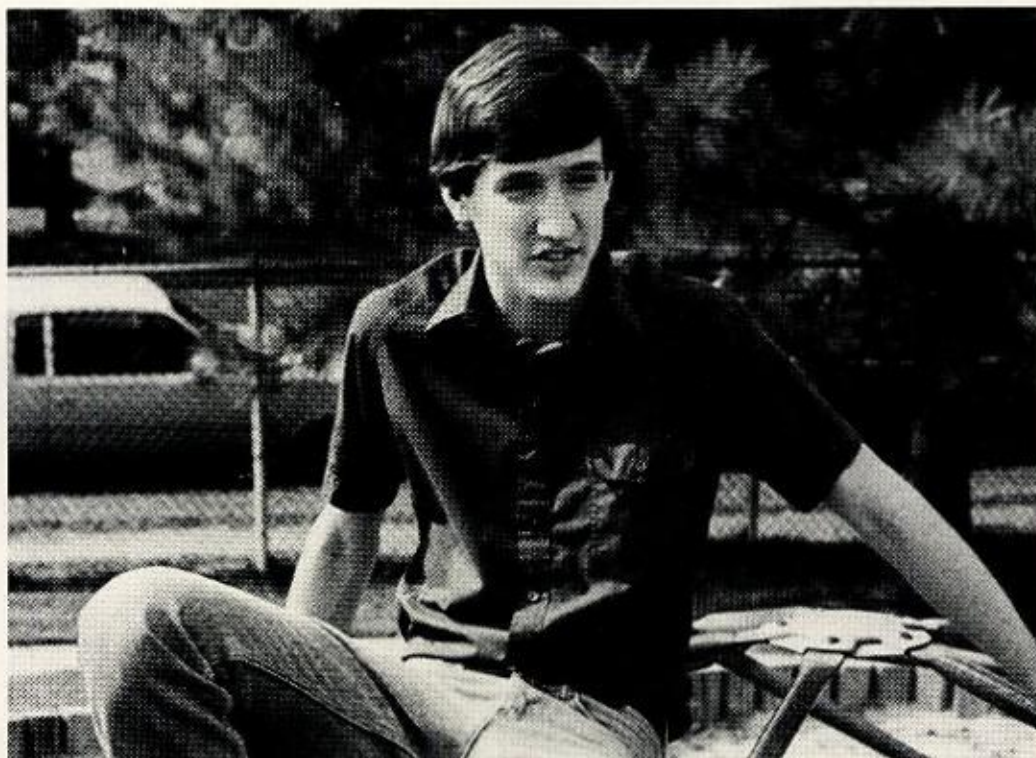

Five of the students were named National Merit Semifinalists, while the other eight were recognized as commended scholars. These students showed exceptional ability in English and Math, and have good chances of attaining National Merit Scholarships.

Sports

Students stimulated by the thought of competition and recognition participated in Lee's athletic programs. School spirit was sparked by the athletic teams; school pride radiated from the playing field. Dedicated athletes displayed ability, talent, and character. Inspired students worked toward a certain goal in a team effort. Continual practicing meant personal sacrifices; in the end, however, the athlete received personal satisfaction in knowing that he "had given it his all." High hopes of victory, a struggle toward a goal, and dedication proved that the Lee athletic program was an important educational lesson.

High Expectations Fall Short

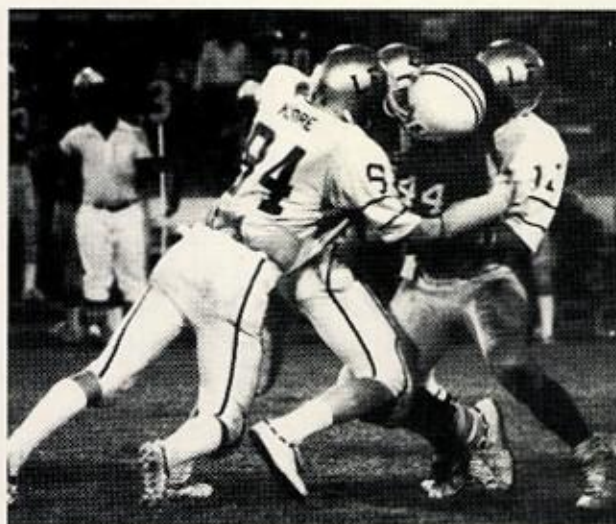

The 81-82 Generals, led by second-year Head Coach Dell Brown, entered the year with high expectations. After an intense off season and spring training Lee had a 3-7 season for the second consecutive year. The scoreboard did not always tell the story though. After the season, Lee had 12 players named to the All-District team with Andy Baroncelli, honored with a first team selection. Joe Yannetti and Matt Zander both made second team on offense with Jeff Paine and Jimmy Podaras being the only defensive second-teamers. Paul Hostak, Jay Jones, Al Nance, John Korry and George Ellis all received honorable mentions.

With only two lettermen returning off of last year's Varsity, Tim White and Kevin Mills, Coach Lee Tynes' roundballers improved slightly on their 80-81 record and finished the year at 7-28 overall. Seniors Randy Ray, Travis Lynch, Pat McCord and Steve Jagers contributed tremendously, while juniors, Travis White, Shannon Simon, and Bob Brown provided support on the boards. Sophomore Mike McCoy turned out to be a pleasant surprise as his shooting was excellent all year long, and he was appropriately honored with a 1st team all district selection.

Tyrus Jefferson was an impressive performer in the long jump with leaps of close to 22 feet all year. Jefferson also high jumped and was soaring to heights of 6 feet 4 inches going into the District Meet. James Parnell and Martin Seibert showed great promise going into District as they were throwing the discus well over 120 feet.

Lee's Baseball team turned out to be one of the strongest teams in 18AAAAA in 1982. With only 5 returning lettermen, The Generals scraped up a small but potent pitching staff headed by seniors Jim Bailey and Steve Crocombe with help from Mike Cavers and Lewis Calvert. Mike Cook, Scott Thorton and Dimitry Payavla proved to be the big bats down the stretch and sparked the Generals to 12-7 record, 3-3 in district at the April deadline.

The 1981-82 boys tennis team, under Mrs. Ella Allen, featured a host of talent-ridden individuals. Man Le completely dominated the 18AAAAA singles circuit and was advancing to regionals at the April deadline. Tim Winter and Greg Taylor were a very strong force in doubles as they received a 2nd place trophy in district competition and advanced to regionals. Lynn Zarr and Steve Mahood were also very tough in district competition.

The 1981-82 golf team was simply unstoppable as they won 5 of 7 major tournaments not including the district 18AAAAA Championship. Led by Steven Mondshine's outstanding score of 73, Lee's linksters were 22 strokes over the closest competitor. Behind Mondshine was Ricky Lamba with a 74, Andy Hodson had a 75 and Strother Simpson turned in a 78 in the district competition. Chad Newlin, Kevin Mondshine, and Rick McConn also contributed greatly to the outstanding achievement. The Generals looked very strong going into the regional finals at the April deadline.

Archers Aim High

Under the coaching of Mrs. Ella Allen, the 1982 Archery team won the district title again outshooting Lamar and Madison. The team's overall total was 1019 which placed them first in district and third in city out of 17 schools. Jennifer Platt received second place in individual shooting with a total of 364. Julie Blailock came in fourth with a 331 total and Lisa Hale captured fifth place.

Varsity V.I.P.'s

The Varsity Volleyball team of 1981, coached by Miss Carole Hornsby, showed great effort and strategy throughout the entire season. These skills along with others led the varsity team to a third place title at the C. E. King tournament during the first half of their season. They ended their season winning second place in district with a final record of 11-3.

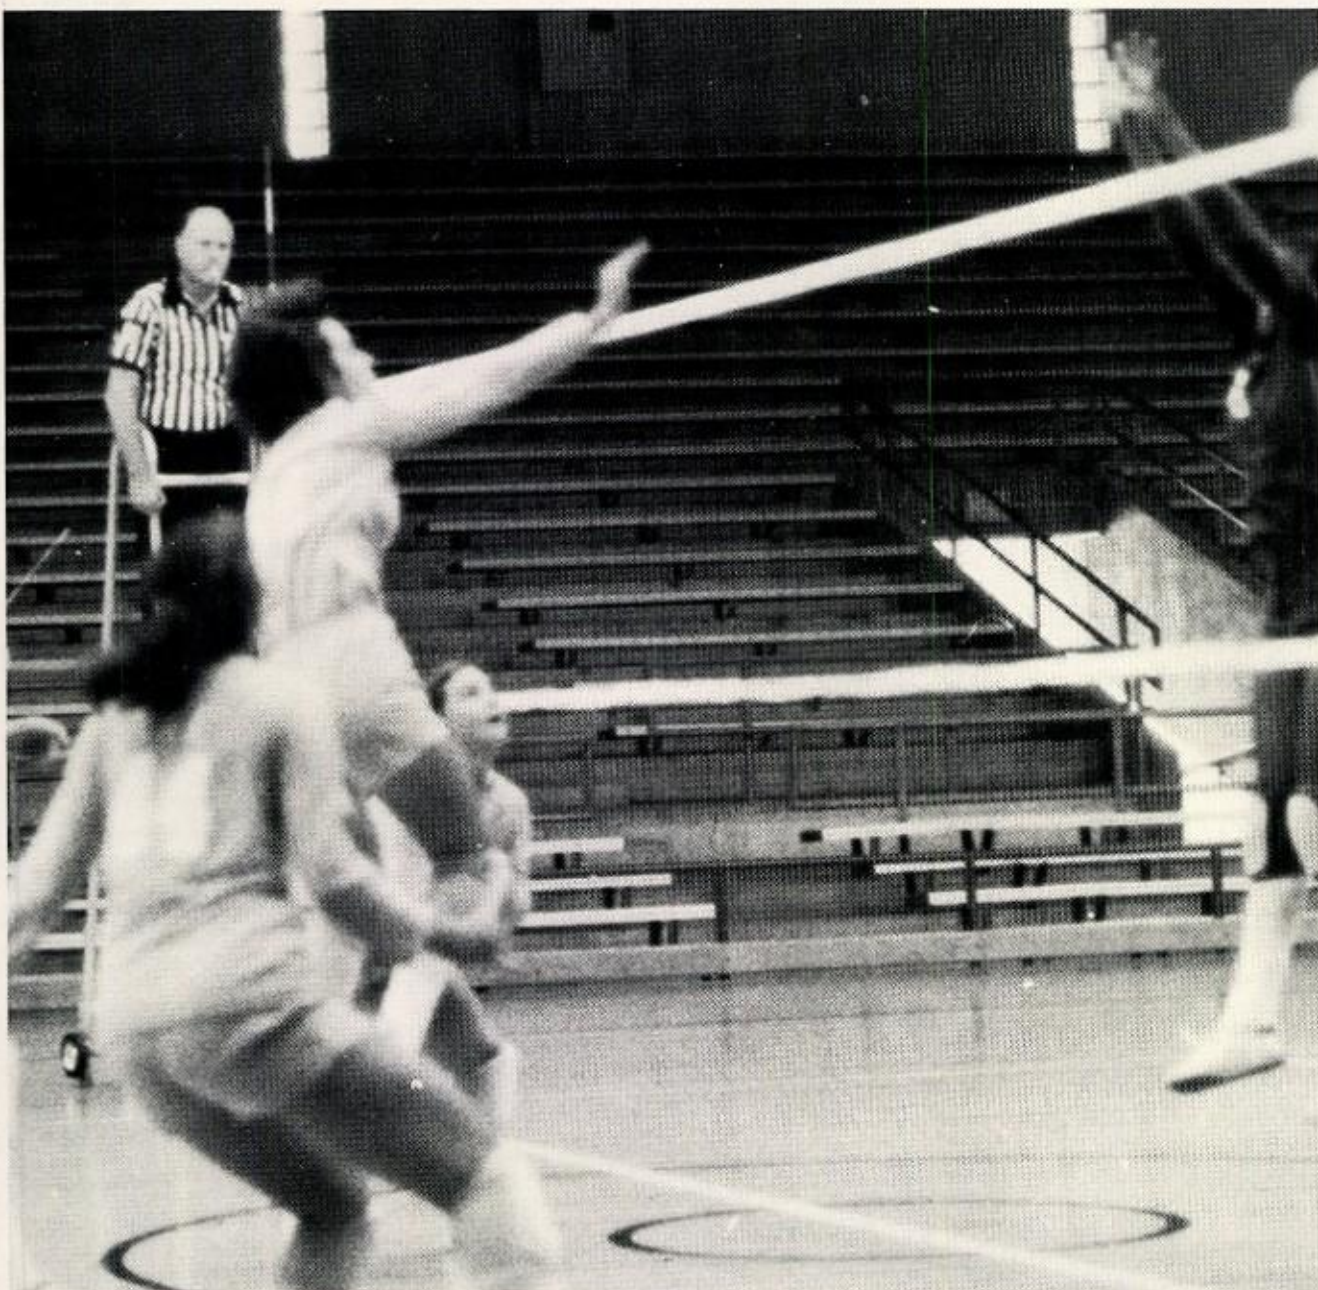

One of the most outstanding players was Susan Adams, winning all-tournament at Dulles and also unanimously voted for her second year All-District. Amy Love and sophomore Cathy Hundl also made All-District.

Coached by Miss Linda Hill, the Junior Varsity Volleyball team was undefeated in the first round of play and was tied for district with Madison, but unfortunately they were overtaken.

During the second round of play, they were chosen as the "wild card" to play for the city championship, but were defeated.

The team put in many hours of practice and showed a great deal of ability and desire to win, which brought about many victories and a great deal of pride.

Bitsy Hinson, with perfect form, dinks one over the net.

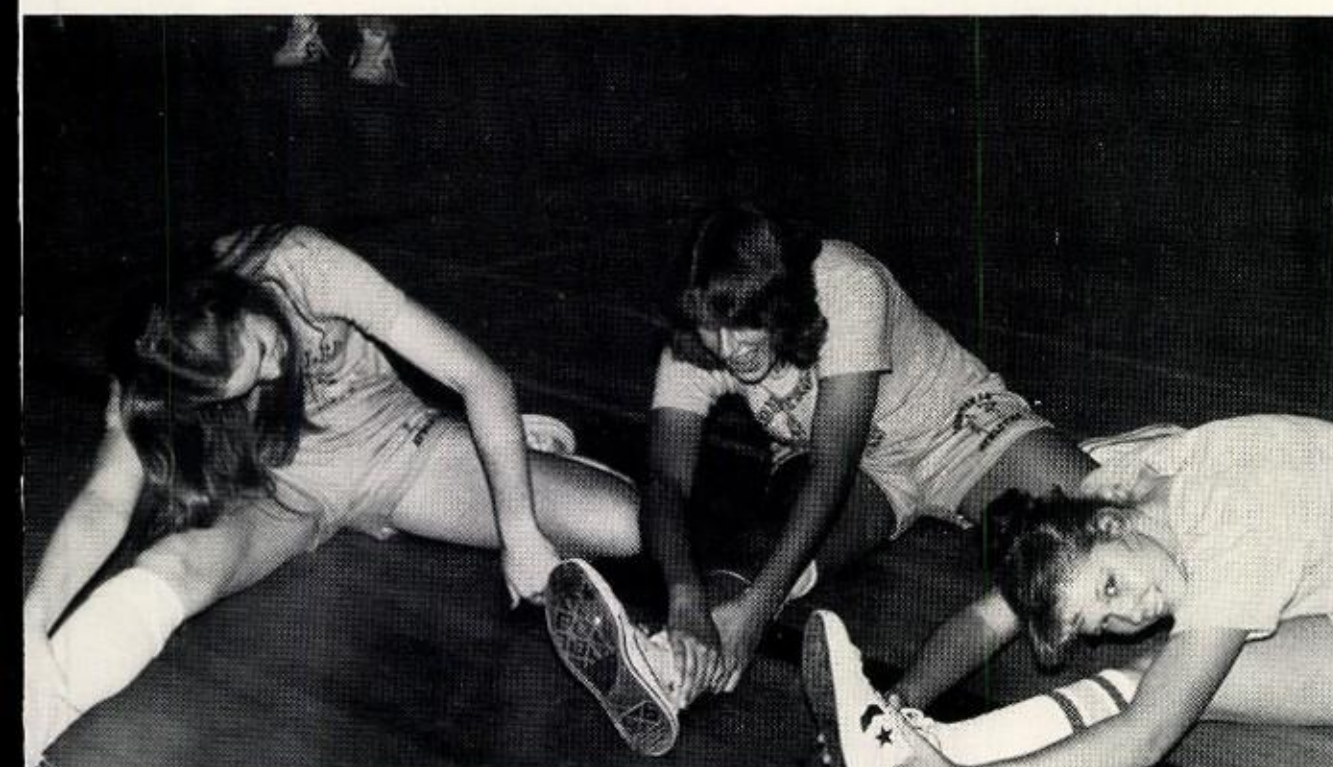

Freshmen Finish First

The Freshman Volleyball team, although they were new to Lee, proved that by much work and ambition, they could end the season with a final average of 12-2. Coached by Miss Jeanne Reynaud they placed second in district. Their attitude should lead to more inspiring years ahead.

Cross Country Finish First

The 1982 girls Cross Country team coached by Miss Jane Borneman consisted of seven girls. This year five girls finished with top timings: Brenda Wall, Diane Marcucci, Melissa Dowling, Boo Davee, and Mary McMahon. The others who participated on the team were Grace Hon and Cheryl Ellis. The team ran in seven different meets and ended their season with a District win. After many long hours of running and hard practice, Coach Borneman and the girls finished the season with much deserved satisfaction.

The girls' basketball teams put in a good season of hard work and much effort despite what their records show.

The Varsity team was coached by Miss Jane Borneman. Three returning lettermen from last year's team were Linda Dowell, Shelly Kay, and Amy Love, who were also the leading scorers for the team. Coming up against some great competition the team finished the year with a 5-16-0 record.

The J.V. team, coached by Miss Jeanne Reynaud, showed great spirit and enthusiasm throughout their season. Great improvement was shown through the girls' skill and ability.

The freshman team, coached by Mrs. Ella Allen struggled through the season finishing with a 3-12-0 record. Despite their disappointing season, the team gained much experience and self-satisfaction.

Tracksters Run for Victory

The girls track team, coached by Miss Linda Hill, had a good season through hard work and perseverance. The majority of the team consisted of sophomores and freshmen with only one three year letterman: Karel Oeland.

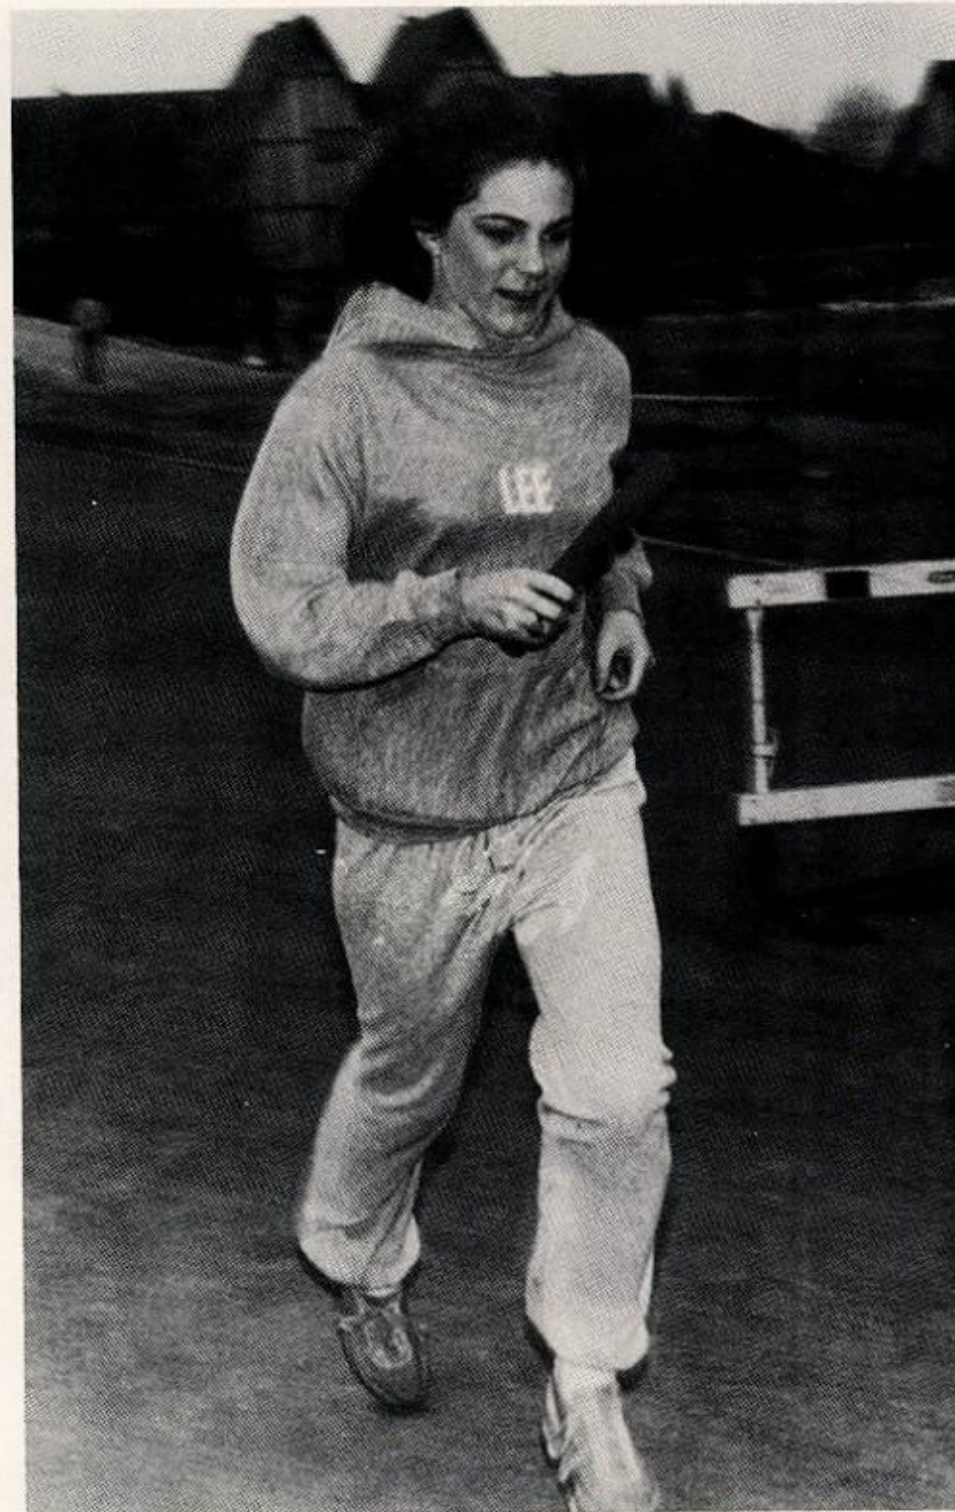

In district the girls took 4th place. The mile relay team consisting of Julie Walker, Tracy Kish, Mary McMahon and Janis Jennings were 3rd place medalists in district. Wendy Harrell went on to regionals for the high jump event.

Team Strokes With Pride

The swim team took district by a score of 89 points over Lamar, Bellaire, Sharpstown, and Westbury. The swimmers received first place in all events except for one, in which they came in second. Also in the district competition Julie Steffes set a new record in the 100 yard breaststroke.

In regionals the girls placed in many events and set two records. Jeannine Clark, Tricia Dillon, Susan Nolan and Julie Steffes took second place in the medley relay. Susan Nolan set a new regional record in the backstroke and placed second in the 200 yard individual medley. Also Julie Steffes won a silver medal in the breaststroke and Heather McClay won a bronze medal in the meter diving.

The team continued their excellent work in the state finals. Nolan won the consolation heat in the backstroke and Steffes won the consolation heat in the breaststroke. The medley relay team were seeded 13th going into the preliminaries.

Organizations

Students interested in particular subjects joined one or more of the many organizations at Lee. Active participation in an organization brought the student experience in serving others and in enjoying one's duties. The clubs at Lee provided an education not offered in the classroom, and also an opportunity for competition and cooperation among students. Lee offered organizations in the following fields of interest: Community service, drama, foreign language, politics, or vocations. The variety of clubs exhibit the individualism of each student and the diverse character of Lee. The organizations supply an atmosphere to express concern and share responsibilities.

This year all the organizations at Lee, under the supervision of the Inter-Club Council, began a school-wide effort to improve Lee's overall appearance. Students involved in this activity as well as other club activities gained experience, knowledge, and friendships.

The Student Council, under the guidance of Mr. Joe Hayes, worked hard to serve the students and the faculty for the betterment of the school.

There were approximately 52 members on the Council, which was less than one-half of last year's membership. Members had to maintain at least a G average in conduct and a 2.6 grade average. They met every other Thursday morning before school.

The Council sponsored school-wide clean-ups and elections throughout the year. They also held teacher appreciation at the holidays and a Christmas party for students at Rogers. Some of its fund raising projects were the sale of spirit buttons, candy, and for a second successful year, the Valentine's Day "Fox Hunt." The library was finally carpeted from funds that had been collected for the past three years. As a community service project they delivered Thanksgiving baskets to the needy. After many years of disputes, the Lee parking lot situation was finally resolved: a "teachers only" lot still remained from past years, while the student lot became a "first come, first serve" lot for all students.

Staffers Get "Zoo"-lued!

As deadlines advanced, the war cry — "Ooola! Ooola! Ooola!" ran rampant throughout the shack. Beginning with the summer meeting, staffers worked to produce the number one publication at Lee under the guidance of Mrs. Margaret Wisdom. As soon as Ben completed his speech for the "Are Ya Happy" campaign, Senior staff members jetted up to Fort Worth where Ria, Anne, Sandra, and Amy formed the Mr. Sandman Quartet. While in Fort Worth, many members resorted to "Plan B," but Donnie was left alone to face the henchmen of Lorene Denney. The Staffers returned and the usual first deadline chaos began. While Matthew tried to help Al sell ads, Al was out looking for the key to the whole matter! David finally got all his pictures together, but the photographers forgot where they put them. James provided to be the most dedicated staff member and Jo Anna is still "in search of Roy Arnold." T was forced to shed her sheepskin and flew with Wiz to Dallas to discuss Homecoming plans in full color. As soon as the Saberites had recovered from the first after-deadline party, the second deadlines struck.

"Oh, ewe just w-wait, one of the-these d-days I'll b-be able to b-baaaaa just like m-my l-little fr-friend h-here," bleats an assuring "T" Weidler, Editor-in-Chief of the SABER.

Jane began looking for a pot of golden layouts under the rainbow. After recovering from his cheerleading injuries, Kevin proved he was "taking care of business — one more time." In between the second and third deadlines, T cast off her sheep and pigs to land in Dallas' field of love twice. During her absence Kenny outdid himself by undoing the phone. While Sam was entertained by Smoky and Michael in daily games of chess, Jeff wanted to bury Burrow deeply. As soon as the final deadline was mailed, junior staffers left for a good time in Austin. The night of the banquet arrived — staffers dawned new T-shirts, and toasted old times. At the banquet The Book was unveiled and Wizzy announced new staff positions. Who was Jim Stewart? Funny, a blank came to everyone's mind at this question.

Rachel Hudgins and Tom Burrow, graduates of the Photographer's School of Dependability, remain as the two surviving staff photographers.

Toddlers Tell All

The Traveler, our school newspaper, provided students with news and information about Lee. The Traveler attempted to bring interesting articles to students twice monthly. Under the supervision of Regina Satlof Block, the faculty advisor, the staff reviewed movies and restaurants, explored the new fads, and included various other articles of interest. The newspaper also succeeded in covering news about various club events around the school and also news about Lee's athletic department. The Traveler staff had a Christmas party; and in May, new staff positions were announced at their spring banquet.

Scribblers Scrawl to Stardom

The Quill and Scroll, the honor society for journalists, was recognized as one of the trendsetting organizations at Lee. "Happy" seniors on the yearbook staff and some sub-humanoids on the traveler, our school toilet paper, were selected as members.

Many projects were completed throughout the year. For the community, the writers started and spread the "Are Ya Happy" campaign. One outstanding member furnished Wizzy, the sponsor, with a year's supply of oranges. For the school, some dedicated members instigated a Joan Crawford-Winter Day Care Center for mentally abused seniors. During the year members worked hard to promote the civil rights of adult male baboons as well as the physical abuse of lowerclassmen. They also strived to wipe out the "Shear the Sheep and Pork the Pig" Campaign. Headquarters for all operations was the Richmond Arms.

Fundraisers for the year included the sale of Baasheepba High Class Rings (as a matter of pride) and some "Nuke the Boring" buttons. They also sold banners reading "Saber, Seniors, Sheep and Swine: we're the class of '69 (+13)." Under the guidance of their mascots, Lester Oinkle and Baasheepba of Ewesia, the scribblers field tripped in the fall up to Fort Worth — "Home of the Birdwell Singers." Other excursions included visits to the zoo and Mutton, Texas in the spring. To close out the year all attended the annual Quill and Scroll Weinie Roast — held in the Lorene Denney Hall of Fame Room on the opening night of Wiz's country club.

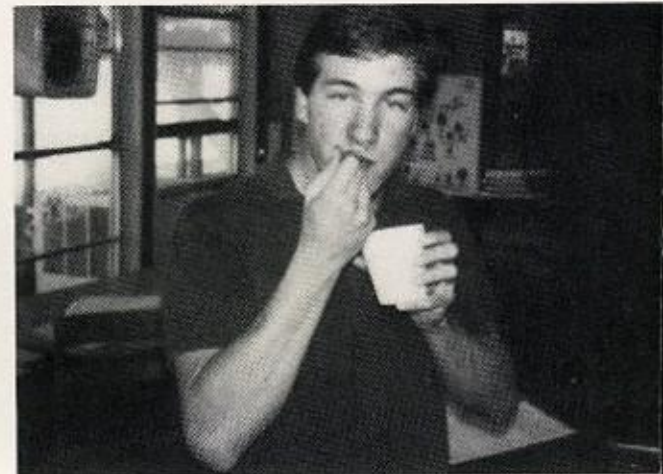

Officers: Al Nance, Wine Taster; Jeff Paine, Bookie; James Parnell, Bartender; Kevin Gilliland, Presidential Advisor; Ria Butler, Secretary of the Treasury; Sam Greer, Liquor Supply Director; Donnie Gillespie, Chessnut; David Marion, Young Weader; Kenny Womack, President's Vice; Anne Cummings, Sex Goddess; Ben Perryman, Speaker of the Shack; T. Close-Up, a club designed to make members more aware of our national government, was sponsored by Mr. Burton Parks. Meeting every first and third Wednesday of the month, the club prepared themselves for the annual winter trip to Washington, D.C. The Club had approximately twenty-five members, consisting of seniors and those juniors in a major works history class.

Close-Up took their annual trip to Washington, D.C., where they toured the nation's capital for seven days. The club talked to Senators, Representatives, and officials of the Reagan administration. The trip was sponsored by the Close-Up Foundation.

Working diligently to serve the school and the community, the Lee Anchor Club had another highly successful year. Members, under the sponsorship of Ms. Malicote, met every other Monday morning before school. The work, however, began during the summer with the organization of Freshman Orientation. During the year, in service to the school, Anchor girls sponsored Career Day, the annual Anchor-Key Progressive Dinner was held in celebration.

In the fall of the year, the club was of service to the community, donating Seaman Center boxes to homecoming sailors at the Port of Houston. Members also assisted with HISD's kindergarten screening and prepared and delivered a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family.

Financing for projects was earned by the selling of "spook suckers" at Halloween and Christmas greenery.

Anchor Club entered an awesome float in the Homecoming Parade, bearing the theme "Corral the Colts!" In October Allison Garner represented the club at a national convention on Pennsylvania.

In the spring an Easter party was given for the elderly. As in tradition, a junior and senior beau were chosen by members. Memorable times were had at various parties and the prosperous year closed with the annual banquet.

Southern Hospitality Lives!

Constantly working to serve Lee and the community, the Hospitality Club once again displayed their good ole' Southern hospitality. Under the leadership of Miss Beth Bogan, Mrs. Mary Ann Mitchell, Mrs. Erma Eberlan, Mrs. Anne Hair and Mrs. Carolyn Moore, the girls met Wednesday afternoons when needed. There are approximately 141 members in the club devoted to service projects at the Grady Special School and the Blalock Nursing Home.

By raising money in their lollipop sales for Valentine's Day and St. Patrick's Day, the club used the money earned for the activities at Grady and toys for needy children. For another project the club helped with the Special Olympics during April.

Key Club Has A Good Year

Working continuously under the guidance of Mr. Henri Gadbois, Key Club performed numerous service projects throughout the year. To help students plan their future, Key Club sponsored Career Day, along with Anchor Club, and also College Night. Members also participated in a Dance-A-Thon for the Multiple Sclerosis Society and a toy drive for needy children. They also assisted residents at Treemont Nursing Home and M. D. Anderson Hospital. Also members of Key Club restored Lester Smuckle's house, completed a CPR course, helped children at Rusk Settlement, and held Blood Day at Lee.

Using funds collected from selling delicious Ruby Red grapefruit and donations from various individuals, the Key Club also planted shrubbery in the Alumni Garden. The forty-five member club, consisting of sophomores, juniors, and seniors, attended training conferences in Houston and also a Texas-Oklahoma district convention in Dallas.

Interact Breaks Loose

Interact continued to perform services for the community. Their main projects were those at Grady Special School. They gave parties for the handicapped students during the holidays and performed various other services for them. The sophomores attended a work day held by the Rotary Club to raise funds. Sponsored by Mr. Charles Gomez, the forty-four members participated in projects to help improve the school. Their hard work was rewarded with a party held in the spring.

Honors Hound Lee

Working hard throughout the year, the National Honor Society tried to achieve respected honors at Lee. The members were selected for their scholastic and extracurricular abilities. Mrs. Stephanie Forbes and Mrs. Lotus Hoey sponsored the club. Offering a tutorial service to students, members helped other students in basic subjects. Members paid dues at the beginning of the year in order to have an induction ceremony for the new members in April.

CAPS

Animal lovers united in the CAPS chapter at Lee this year. Club members volunteered in the city-wide CAPS program. The new club found homes for stray dogs and cats. Meetings every Tuesday before school and nightly meetings were held with speakers from the city-wide CAPS organization as guests. In order to raise money, members sold candy. A rotating system of officers enabled many different members the opportunity of running the club. This club was also sponsored by Ms. Kathryn Timme.

Lieutenants Lend Support

The Lee Lieutenants, under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Hair, displayed continuous support for all athletic competition throughout the year. During football season, they provided halftime entertainment for extra enjoyment. The girls also attended a summer camp at the University of Houston to begin preparation of new routines. They also participated in a drill training program to maintain the needed precision.

The Lieutenants sold Christmas cards and directories to help finance a senior ski trip to Winter Park and the annual Rebelee Ball. The new officers took over responsibilities during the Grey-Gold game after being installed in April. The support of the Lee Lieutenants was seen throughout the year.

Strike Up The Band!

Entertaining at sporting events and pep rallies, the Marching Generals upheld their tradition of quality music. The fifty-six member band was directed by Mr. Brad Braker. The band held a spaghetti supper and an acrylic sale to raise funds. Proceeds were used to buy new equipment and to finance a spring trip. The band entered several contests. Their service projects included performing at graduation, the Honor Society induction, and the Lieutenants' induction. They also held a concert at Paul Revere Middle School.

Southernaires Sing With Style

Ms. Eleanor Grant guided the 52 members to have a year filled with improvements in their musical ability. The club practiced everyday, rehearsing for the numerous competitions in which they participated.

Representing Lee in the All-Region Choir were Kristen Koehl, Donna Brown, Scott Meyer, Kevin Adair, Grant Kennedy, Karen Threadgill, and Peter Lowrie. Scott Meyer was selected for the All State Choir and Kevin Adair, as an alternate.

Southernaires not only entertained Lee students, but also performed at numerous outside functions. The club appeared at Lord and Taylor, the Petroleum Club Christmas Party, the Business Women's Association, and other organizations.

In order to buy new musical materials and take a spring trip, the Southernaires had their annual sale of cheese and sausage; and also held their Concert '81-Talent show.

While Amanda Gossett, Delano Mitchell, and Ms. Eleanor Grant try to pick up a tune by blowing in a jug, Robyn Weigand and Carrie Vandagriff accompany them with a song.

Dixiliers Have Rhythm

Singing at various shopping centers and programs at Lee, the Dixiliers represented Lee with their musical talent and singing ability. With the help of Ms. Eleanor Grant, the club perfected their musical skills and sight reading so they could compete in solo and ensemble contests.

The twenty six girls in Dixiliers worked hard during the year selling cheese, sausage, and bakery items. The club's profits enabled them to go on a spring field trip and buy new musical equipment which would be useful to their club.

Practicing every day during second period, the girls learned new songs not only for competition, but also for the service projects to entertain the community.

Brigadiers Bring Cheers

Providing entertainment for various community and school functions was the main purpose of the Brigadiers and Rebeliers. The freshmen mixed and girls' choirs were under the direction of Mrs. Anne Hair. They performed a wide variety of classical music in choral contests. At Christmas, the choirs sang carols at many retirement homes throughout the city and presented "Christmas on Angel Street" for the Lee student body.

Rebeliers Ring Out

For fund-raising projects, they sold cheese and Valentine candy. The money collected was used to buy a wireless lapel microphone and to make various improvements in the auditorium.

Along with the Southernaires and Dixiliars, the Rebeliers and Brigadiers spent days at Woodcreek Resort in Wimberly, Texas to close the year.

Razz Runs Wild

Razz-M-Tazz, a traveling entertainment group, produced an excellent variety of skits for those of all ages. The group put on a show for the student body and traveled around Houston performing for elementary schools.

The group appeared for the first time in front of the University of Houston drama department and also for the Memorial Drive Presbyterian Church. They made a rare television appearance on Ron Stone's "Scene at Five."

All their material was original, and they received payment for their performances. The proceeds went for a new portable sound system.

Dramalee Acts Up

Producing the Christmas and spring plays kept the members of Dramalee busy most of the year. The group used the funds raised from the ticket sales for drama equipment and for workshops in mime, costuming, and improvisation. They also held an awards banquet and a picnic in Memorial Park.

Led by Ms. Linda Shuler, the group participated in a U.I.L. competition against other schools. For competition the group was required to perform a one act play. The Drama department chose "Cyrano de Bergenac" and presented "Scapino" for their annual Spring play. The University of Houston held seminars that the members attended.

Those members who excelled were chosen to join Thespians, an international drama honor society. Students were required to earn a number of points in order to become a member.

Supertechs Light the Way

In order to handle the backstage work involved in a production in the auditorium, Supertechs was formed this year under the supervision of Ms. Linda Shuler. The auditorium was becoming rundown, so Supertechs was formed to keep it neat and orderly. The members handled lighting and sound equipment and also built sets.

Some of the projects undertaken by this group were a remodeling of the backstage and wing areas, and a general revival of the auditorium. The club also repaired equipment from other schools in the city.

Guard Protects Mascot

Members of the General Guard protected the school mascot, Uncle Bob. Under the direction of Mr. Burton Parks the club was very active and attended every Lee football game. The club was also responsible for the upkeep and safe storage of Uncle Bob. Much time and effort was spent by the members in the transportation of our mascot.

The Brigade Keeps Banging Away

Learning about the military and the qualities of leadership were just a few of the many valuable lessons acquired by students who were a part of the Lee Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC). The ROTC, led by Colonel Arthur Butcher and Sergeant Richard Cockroft, tackled several important community projects.

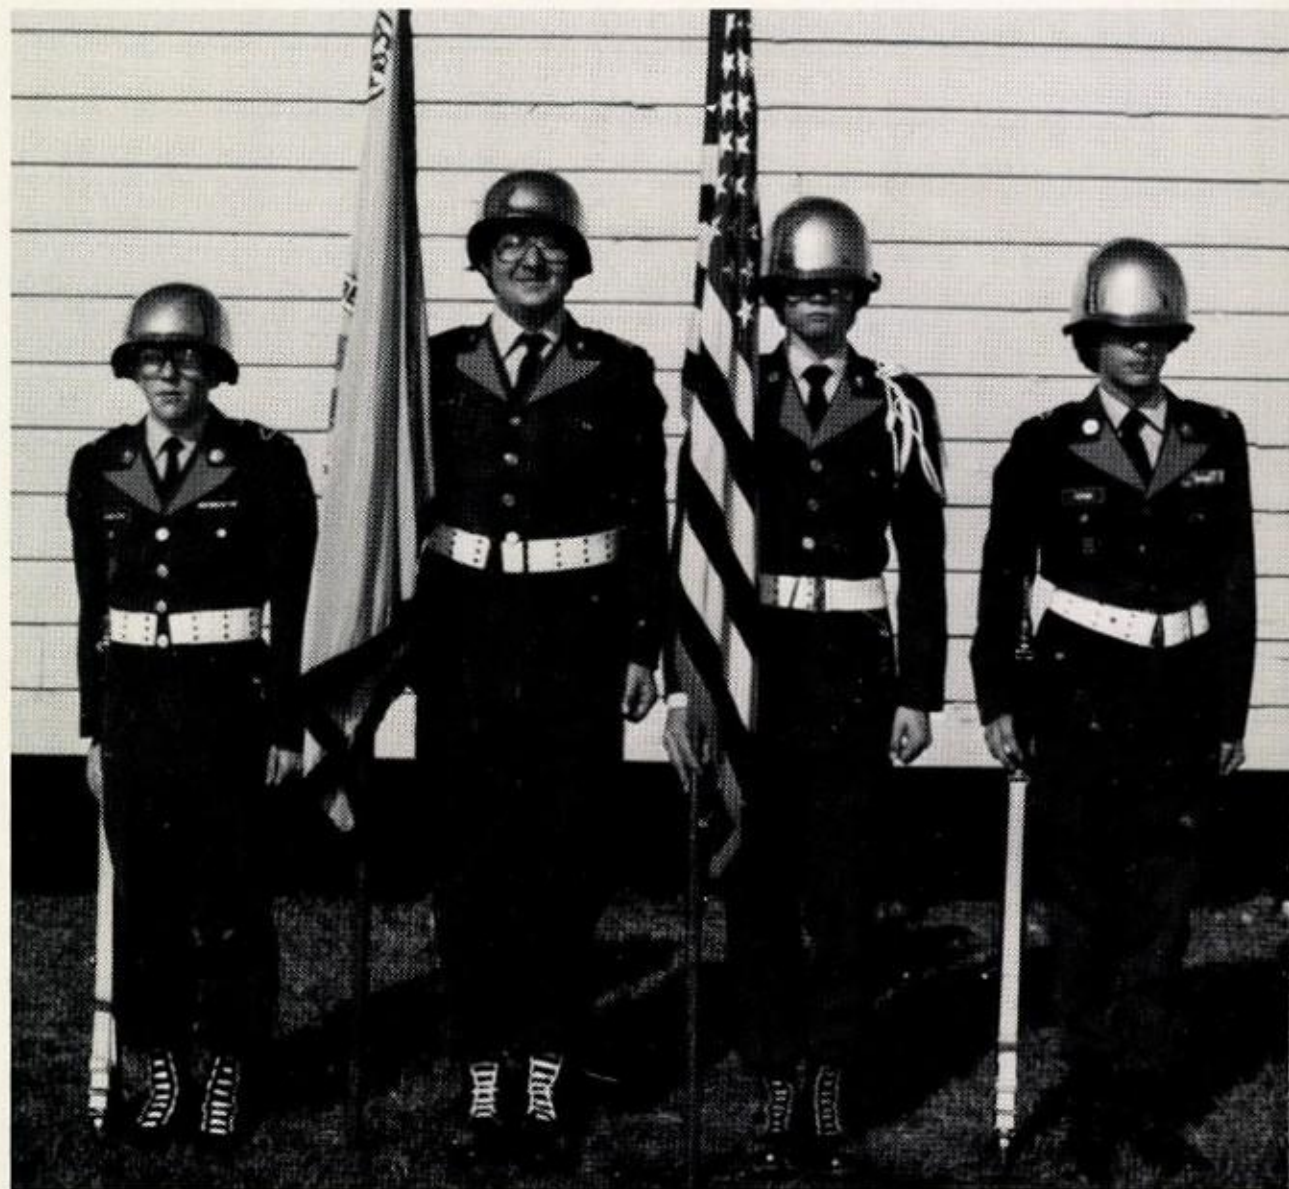

The one hundred fifty members participated in numerous fund raising projects, including a candy sale, a chile supper, and a car wash. Club-sponsored activities were concentrated on community service projects such as visiting the children at the Grady school. They also provided needed services at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo.

The ROTC planned many activities, including Halloween and Christmas parties and a military ball at the end of the year.

The Lee rifle team participated in many marksmanship competitions with several area schools. The team strove to achieve the highest level of excellence at every meet. Venturing off campus, the club took a field trip to Galveston for their annual picnic.

Countee's Creative Clubs

Devoted to the challenging board games of chess and backgammon, members of the Lee Chess-Backgammon Society met weekly to sharpen their skills in preparation for tournament play. Newcomers to either game were welcome to join, as instruction ranged from beginner to advanced levels.

Under the watchful eyes of Ms. Doris Countee, club members played game after game in order to sharpen both individual and tournament skills. The more devoted competitors met both before school and during lunch to improve their strategy and skill level.

Scuba Club

The Scuba Club, sponsored by Ms. Doris Countee, was made up of Lee students who were interested in the underwater world. Although several members were certified divers, any student with an interest in diving was allowed to join. The club strove toward the goal of getting all the members certified through accredited diving courses.

To cover the various expenses of the club's operation, funds were raised by the collection of club dues. Interest in the sport was stimulated through the showing of films and the speaking of certification instructors at club meetings. The club's primary goal was the promotion of safety in all types of diving. Members of the club traveled to such diving havens as Florida and Cozumel. They also dove to the wreck of the V.A. Fogg, a ship which sank in 1973 due to an explosion.

Good News in Store for All

Officers: Krista Bodine, Vice President; Karen Kehr, President.

Members of the American Legion Club kept themselves busy the entire year working in the General Store. The store provided a wide variety of supplies for the convenience of the student body. To become a member of the club, sponsored by Mrs. Karen Jenson, one must have been a past nominee for the American Legion Award. The profits made by the group were used to purchase equipment to better the school.

Texans Walk Tall

The seventy members of the Texas History Club, sponsored by Mrs. B. Mitchell, worked together to learn more about their state's cultural background. Selling cookies and suckers, the club earned enough money to take their annual field trip to San Antonio.

The club used their extra money to buy books for Lee's library and also sponsor a Thanksgiving party for the Metropolitan Day Care Center.

Latins Get to the Roots

Students with high achievements in Latin joined the Latin Honor Society. The club honored students with high achievements in the study of the Latin language and encouraged cultural enthusiasm in the appreciation of colonial civilization. To help pay for tournament expenses members sold doughnuts before school. In the fall members also held an Olympic games meet just for fun.

Bowlers Come Up With a Ten

Students interested in bowling and wishing to further their bowling skills joined the bowling club. Sponsored by Mr. Tom Williams, the members met every Tuesday at the Windsor Plaza Bowling Alley. Also students competed in various tournaments throughout the year. High scoring members were awarded trophies at a banquet at the end of the year.

Upper Left: Pinhead, Clay Rivette, knows the feeling of being knocked down, but can always resume his stable position.

Upper Right: A baffled bowler, Carl Hollingsworth, hopes he won't be seeing anymore gutters.

Karoline Eubanks may strike out with boys but when it comes to bowling she's a perfect 10.

Club Members: Steve White, Clay Rivette, Stephanie Hemenway, Carl Hollingsworth, Karoline Eubanks, Bill Williamson.

Peppy People Push Pride

Every Tuesday night during football season, members of the Spirit Committee met to discuss their game plan. The loyal committee members prepared cookies, cakes, and spirit boxes, and wrapped rooms and houses all to cheer on the players. Spirit provided went beyond the football season of course, with support of several other girls' and boys' sports throughout the year.

With the back-up of Ms. Doris Countee, club sponsor, the group was in charge of the annual Booster Club drive. They also sold calendars and Spirit cups and sponsored a spirit chain contest to raise money. Profits were used to purchase paint, brushes, and paper to paint the spirit signs present at every game.

During pep rallies Spirit Committee members congregated and cheered their loudest along with the cheerleaders. Skits by members sometimes graced the pep rallies and committee girls announced the best offensive and defensive players of the week.

Spirit Committee "10's" set out in search of Tarzan only to find his "monkey."

Elizabeth Baier is awestruck when she overhears Marci Zink's and Karen Kehr's plans for the weekend.

"No, it's not a bird or a plane," explains Ria Butler to Alyson Callier, "it's just Ms. Countee calling plays from the stands again."

South of the Border

While spreading the Spanish Language and culture, the Spanish Club improved the resources of the Spanish department. Through candy sales the group helped finance their trip to Mexico City and Vera Cruz at Easter. Along with serving to stimulate interest in the Spanish culture, the club also functioned as a service club. Members gave parties for poor Spanish communities at Christmas.

Throughout the year, the club held nightly meetings with speakers or other culture related activities. The annual banquet was also held. The 250 member club, under the leadership of Mrs. Inez Frombaugh and Mrs. Antonia Wong, met every second and fourth Wednesday of the month.

French Club Spreads Culture

Promoting interest in French culture was one of the functions of Les Fleurs de Lee. With the aid of Mrs. Miriam Peterson, the club sponsored a faculty breakfast where they served French food. The members themselves also had a taste of French food when they dined at some French restaurants.

The club, composed of 45 members, competed in the Houston Poetry Contest, the Texas French Symposium, and the National French Contest.

FHA Is Really Cookin'!

Future Homemakers of America sponsored by Miss Beth Bogan, Ms. Kathy Malloy, Ms. Nora Davis, and Mrs. Jean Rhiddlehoover, is a club whose purpose is to promote a better understanding of homemaking. This club is not only open to homemaking students, but to all of the students here at Lee interested in learning about what homemaking really is. FHA's 150 members meet on the first Friday of every month in order to plan their never-ending service projects. Some of their activities included making a Thanksgiving basket for a nursing home and having an annual breakfast for the faculty around Christmas.

"Just because I'm the president of this club, that doesn't mean you can always find me in the kitchen," growls Kristi "Homemaker" Gilliam, whereas Allison Terry knows the real truth.

Conservatives Go Radical

Political awareness was the main goal of the Young Conservatives of Texas. The Club consisted of 90 members who met on the first and third Tuesdays of every month, under the direction of Mrs. Susan Hooten, Mrs. Bronwyn Rack, and Mrs. Cindy O'Brien. The members registered 18 year old students to vote, and distributed voter education pamphlets concerning candidates and their issues. Money obtained from selling tamales was used for a field trip to criminal courts and another trip to Austin. Members also held a spring picnic and a banquet in May.

Scholars Spread Culture

Hard work and determination is seldom overlooked. Therefore the Spanish National Honor Society recognizes students at Lee that excel in Spanish. Under the sponsorship of Mereya Estevez and Inez Frombaugh, the fifty select members met on the third Wednesday of each month. Included in SNHS's fund-raising projects were candy and calendar sales. The money was used to help improve some of the Spanish departments' projects. The members entertained the children at Ripley House at Christmas with a party. They also organized their annual banquet during Foreign Language Week.

FFA Finds Future in Farming

Future Farmers of America strove to increase its members' knowledge of agricultural skills. Under the leadership of Mr. Roy Sheffield, the club met once a month and received guidance on various agricultural fields.

Selling calendars and holding a plant sale, the members of FFA were able to hold a banquet and a local livestock show. Future Farmers also attended the Houston Livestock Show, FFA Leadership Contests and a state convention in Fort Worth.

Fellowship Flourished

Spreading fellowship, the Christian Student Union once again had a very successful year. On Tuesday mornings the club, along with Mrs. Jackie Freeman the sponsor, had speakers who discussed various religious subjects. While on Thursday mornings they participated in a share time, opening and closing in prayer.

The CSU activities extended far beyond school walls. Members attended some Christian concerts and also held evening meetings.

Promoting excellence in oral communication through competitive speaking was the purpose of the Lee Debate Team. The thirty members met every day after school under the direction of Mr. Rod Nichols. They sponsored a movie along with the Senior Cabinet to raise funds to pay for tournament entry fees and debate materials. The club competed in various competitions including contests with Lamar and Clear Creek High Schools. Debaters also traveled to San Antonio to compete.

They participated in community functions by providing speakers for civic affairs. To close the year the debate team held their annual banquet in April.

AFS Goes Abroad

Promoting international understanding, the American Field Service (AFS) gave students the opportunity to become familiar with the cultures and traditions of foreign countries. With the money earned from their candy sale, the members were able to sponsor Lee students in the Americans Abroad program and also sponsor foreign students sent by AFS to Lee.

Under the supervision of Miss Kathryn Priest the club had an active and productive year.

DECA Does Dallas

Under the leadership of sponsors Ms. Betty Ann Jones and Mrs. Jackie Freeman, members of DECA were trained to be future leaders in the field of marketing. A trip to the Dallas Apparel Mart and the World Trade Mart gave students first-hand knowledge in this field.

Students sold homecoming mums and gave a faculty buffet for their service projects. A new concept for DECA this year was their decision to have Board of Directors rather than their traditional list of officers, although the president, vice president still presided.

VOCCT Builds Motivation

Developing motivation through competition was just one of the objectives of the Vocational Office Careers Clubs of Texas. With the aid of Mrs. Glyndon Willis, VOCCT created more competition in club activities, and the twenty-five members had a chance to demonstrate their acquired basic skills.

By selling notepads, calendars, and Christmas tags, the club raised enough money to compete in the State Contest in Corpus Christi, and also to go to a company to observe their printing department.

For their service project, they assisted the school office in printing documents needed for the student body.

Faculty

Many new faces appeared on the staff at Lee this year. New teachers brought new techniques to add to old methods of education. However, the goal of each teacher was the same: each tried to prepare for the future by providing guidance to help students expand their knowledge. Faculty members stimulated minds and made immutable impressions on students' lives. Students were persuaded to examine the outside world as well as their own surroundings in order to insure an opportunity for future success. As the instructors matured the students, responsibility and self-discipline entered the lives of many. Everyone had a favorite teacher, and each teacher was someone's favorite. Exchange of knowledge established lasting friendships and relationships between teachers and students.

Administration Faces Changes

Lee's principal, Mr. Larry Bergen, had the responsibility of dealing with the changes and problems that accompany any modern day high school. Mr. Bergen made the everyday decisions while acting as both the school's main public relations official and as a co-ordinator of faculty and students.

With the addition of many new students from outside the Houston area, Mr. Bergen recognized the need to unify the student body and thus build a strong school spirit. Through the cooperation of school organizations and the student body itself, this reviving of school spirit began to take shape this year. Mr. Bergen realized that the students were having to adapt to many changes, but he felt that a better school environment resulted.

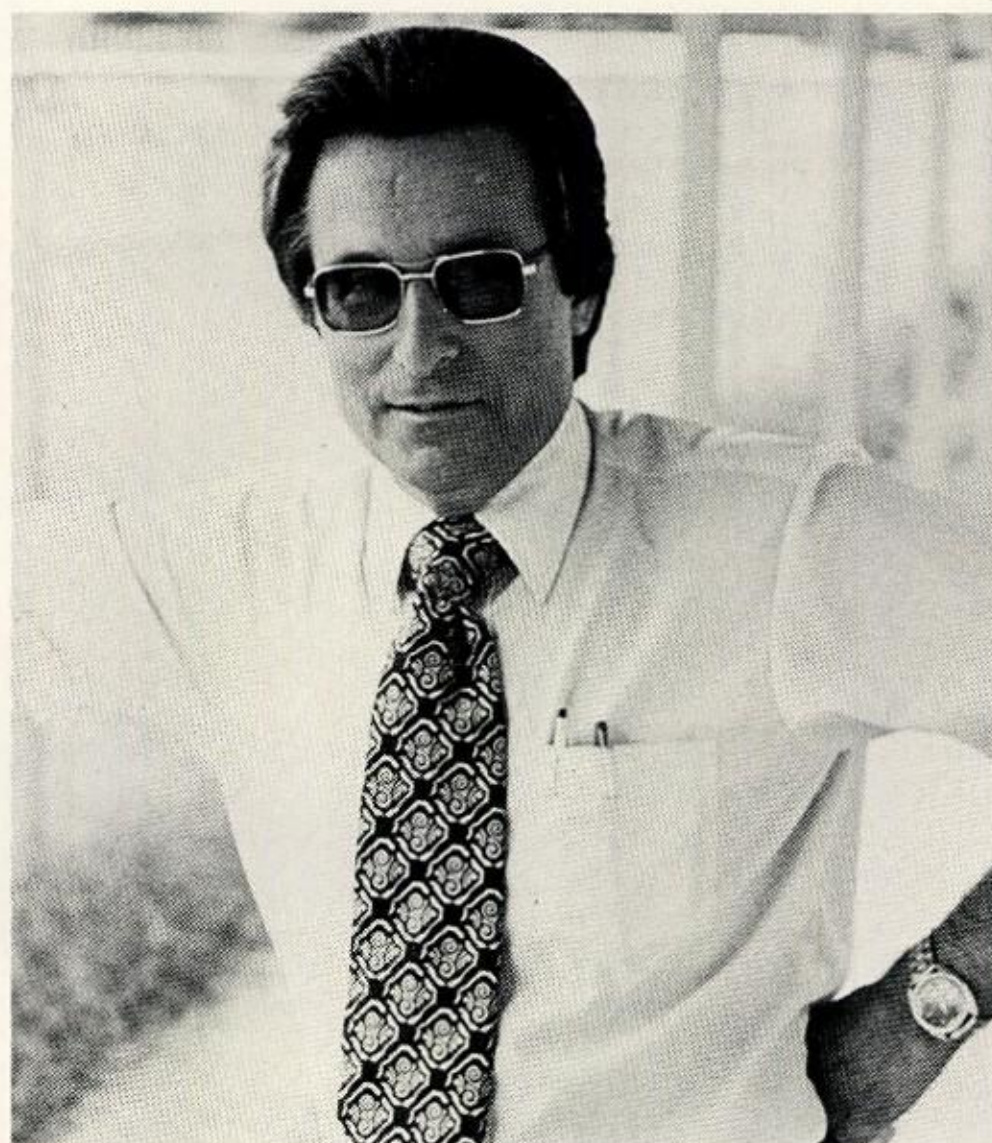

Special challenges faced the administration because of the international make-up of the student body. Wide varieties of languages and cultures existed at Lee. Extra classes and specialized instruction to suit these special situations were needed. This effort to provide a well-rounded education to each student was one of the main challenges facing Lee's administration this year.

Mr. Bergen also related that Lee was among the top H.I.S.D. schools in academic testing once again this year. These scores, he felt, were proof that Lee offered one of the very best educational experiences to be found. Mr. Bergen's pride in our school was very evident, and he felt that the total efforts of the administration, faculty, and students were to be highly commended.

Lee's assistant principals, Mrs. Mary Caroline Smith, Mr. William Cook, Mr. Fred Skains, and Mr. Charles Henderson handled a great number of administrative duties.

Mrs. Smith issued textbooks along with disciplining the senior class. Along with junior class discipline, Mr. Cook also kept the school inventory. Mr. Skains made sure the building was secure in addition to directing the sophomore class.

Mr. Henderson maintained order in the freshman class, while supervising the bus routes and schedules. In addition to these responsibilities, the assistant principals performed many necessary functions vital to Lee's day-to-day operation.

English Speaks Correctly

The English department, directed by Mrs. Sharon Nickel, instructed students in Language Arts with an emphasis on basic skills. The ability to write clearly was stressed, along with the fundamentals of reading and grammar.

Major Works and CVAE programs were offered to students wanting alternatives. Courses in basic reading and reading development placed a greater emphasis on reading skills. Student involvement came through activities such as FTA, the Book Fair, UIL Literary Competition, and the Society for the Advancement of the Arts.

Math Functions

With courses ranging from the basic to the involved, Lee's math department, headed by Mrs. Thera Yoes, strove to fulfill every students' career and college needs. Lee students were offered instruction in everything from the basics of Algebra and Geometry to the more complex theories of Trigonometry and Calculus. Interested students could learn the techniques of programing in Computer Math, while the most dedicated students chose to take the more challenging Major Works curriculum.

Mu Alpha Theta, a nationally affiliated math club, was available to those students who wished to participate in math contests and related activities.

The department continued to stress the importance of math in higher education, as well as in the business world.

History Looks Back

Social Studies included Seniors learning about our political system in government and economics courses, while the lower classes gained information in such courses as American and world history. Sociology and psychology were also offered.

The mayor's race stimulated interest in city politics, as did other local elections. Seniors who had reached their eighteenth birthday were able to take part in the political process.

Those interested in history or politics could become involved in the Young Conservatives of Texas and the Texas History Club. Ones with legal minds became members of the Law Club, which dealt with the dealings of the court system.

Scientists Hypothesize

Preparing students for today's technical world was the main goal of Lee's Science department. The science department, led by Mr. Howard Behrens, strove to make Lee students aware of the science related challenges in both higher education and the business world.

A diverse selection of courses was offered, ranging from the life processes of biology and oceanography to the mathematics of chemistry and physics. Once again, a geology class was available for those interested in the study of rocks and minerals.

Related clubs included the Junior Engineering Technical Society (JETS) and the Science Club, which were open to students interested in extra-curricular science activities.

Artists Search for a Perspective

The main objective of Lee's Art department this year was to promote an interest in all facets of the artistic world. Students learned more about themselves while they developed their creativity and perfected their technique. Becoming a well-rounded individual, with many talents and interests was the reward for a student's efforts in the arts.

The art department, under the direction of Mr. Henri Gadbois, helped students reach their full potential in the fields of drawing, painting, and sculpture. Photography and animated movies were part of the more advanced art courses. Musical interests could be pursued in one of the choral groups, in the orchestra, in the stage band, or in the Marching Generals. Instruction in guitar was also offered.

The Language Arts department, headed by Mr. Rod Nichols, helped those who wished to develop their speaking and writing skills. Speech and debate, along with journalism, were among the courses offered. Positions on the newspaper and year book staffs were open to students who wished to pursue their interest in journalism.

Miss Linda Shuler, directed the Drama department, which provided education in drama while entertaining the school with its Razz-M-Tazz troupe.

Linguists Get Romantic

The Foreign Language department's goal was to increase the students ability to communicate in a foreign language. Led by Mrs. Inez Frombaugh, the department made available languages such as Spanish, French, German, and Latin.

Other courses, such as Conversational Spanish and Word Power, offered instruction applicable to daily situations.

For students interested in extracurricular activities there were organizations such as Les Fleurs de Lee, the Spanish Club, and the German Club.

Students with special talents in languages joined merit organizations such as the Spanish National Honor Society and the Latin Honor Society. The American Field Service assisted those who were interested in traveling to other countries.

Happy Cookers Whip It Good

Helping to improve the quality of personal and family life was the goal of the Home Economics department. Courses available in the department included Family Living, Clothing, Foods, Consumer Education, Home Furnishings, Home and Family Living, and Home Management. Students were taught the necessary skills to perform in the home environment.

Miss Katharine Molloy led the department which also provided the H.E.C.E. program for further development of home skills. The F.H.A. Club was offered for those students interested in making a career in Homemaking.

P.E. Gets Physical

The development of one's physical skills was the fundamental goal of the Physical Education department. P.E. classes were designed to develop healthy and active habits. Through such sports as volleyball, softball, basketball, tennis, archery, badminton, bowling, and golf, the department, led by Mr. Dell Brown and Mrs. Ella Allen, tried to provide a variety of activities.

Cadets in the R.O.T.C. were trained by Colonel Arthur Butcher and Sergeant Richard Cockcroft to handle the responsibilities and the discipline necessary for possible military careers.

Lee's drill team, the Lee Lieutenants, directed by Mrs. Anne Hair, worked hard to prepare for the football halftime shows in addition to performing many other functions.

Learning Means Earning

The Business Education department trained students in the skills needed to be successful in the business world. The department, under the direction of Mrs. Sandra Meyer, provided practical courses such as Typing, Shorthand, Accounting, Business Law, and Office Education Coop.

A variety of cooperative work programs were offered for those students who wished to combine the school day with a full work day. These courses, which enlarged student's awareness of the business world included the VOE, DE, ICT, and HECE programs.

Prospective farmers participated in the Vocational Agriculture program, which was directed by Mr. Roy Sheffield. Agriculture students studied and worked with various types of plant and animal life. They often entered their projects in local contests and fairs along with presenting the annual Ag. show in February.

The Industrial Arts department, under the leadership of Mr. Clark Young, gave students the opportunity to develop their talents in classes such as Wood Shop, Metal Shop, and Drafting.

Classes

From naivety to responsibility, the students made up the essential qualities of Lee life. The students, who formed the "general" atmosphere, were the key to Lee's character. The personalities expanded from the freshmen to the seniors. Freshmen, insecure about the different surroundings, adjusted to the new environment. The settled sophomores became more involved with the Lee routine. The juniors gained more experience and knowledge while anticipating their senior year. The trend-setting seniors reigned over the lower-classmen while preparing for their future. Students varied in maturity and insight, and each contributed to the unique character of Lee. Although each student was recognized as an individual, in essence, everyone had something in common — they were together this year at Lee.

Tale of '82

We had rendezvous at The Richmond Arms,
Sam's, The Vine, and The Station,
And after that it's on to Wild City,
Or Junction Desolation.

Our senior year had senior class,
with jocks and clubs united,
For if we couldn't score upon the field,
We could always be excited!

Formals and parties did set the pace,
Plaid bow-ties all inclusive,
Some girls bought new formals every time,
While some were more elusive.

The heartaches and losses were flitted out,
And all was heard was laughter,
For, "It's not whether you win or lose,
It's how you party after."

You have witnessed The Tale of '82.

Parties bring out the best in Junior girls.

Juniors Crave Excitement

Being a Junior,
Getting involved was very important.
Learning to become more
Diligent in their classes
Proved their serious attitude.
They became more active in
The various organizations and Held positions which reflected
Their leadership capabilities.

As they became involved in School and social activities,
They were surrounded by friends and Teachers who would influence their Lives in the future.

With all the activities,
Juniors found time to Enjoy themselves and to Reach their goals.

Sophomores Shoot for Stardom!

Making their marks,
Leaving their traces,
Sophomores were anxious
To get on their way.

The party people hit the books
And cut down on the play.
In hopes of being someone,
Somewhere, someday.

Given a little more freedom,
Their spirits began to soar,
The sophomores found Lee life,
Anything but a bore.

Making the best
Of what they could do,
Sophomores pursued
Their goals once more.

"Smile, it's contagious, just like the Sophomore spirit!," grins a freckled faced, Margaret Weatherly.

Class of '85

Alan Harp, Vice President; Suzie Mott, Treasurer; Kim Zook, President; Jeff Jones, Secretary.

Will They Survive Till '85?

The door opens for a new class;
Bright young faces
Gather in the halls.

There are so many Things to discover and find.
Involvements with friends and school
Begin to take shape.

The level now is low
But soon the excitement
Will increase.

They'll edge to the top
And soon will
Make places for themselves.

Soon they'll find
The right place to be
And the class of '85
Will make it's mark
On the future of Lee.

"Wow! You really will bend over backwards for me!" says Ashley Allen to a devoted Natalie Evans.

Senior Honors, Ads, Index

As the spring season approached and the last semester drew to a close, many seniors felt that old itch, "senioritis," creeping upon them. School books closed and hearts raced. With few reservations the seniors of 1982 packed their bags and accepted the challenge to begin a new chapter in their life.

These students did, however, devote time and themselves to amass all they could from their last year in high school. Seniors acquired memories and impressions that would last a lifetime as well as utilizing four years of high school as a foundation for the development of goals to carry them through the future. Student involvement during high school helped the graduates set sights for the years to come.

San Felipe Bank

The financial source.

In the past 8 years, we've grown rapidly, keeping pace with the tremendous growth in our area. But we're still the right size to know the importance of all our accounts. It's our policy to give you all the support and banking services you need. From commercial loans to interest bearing deposits to drive-thru banking. At San Felipe Bank, we believe that full service banking includes paying full attention to you.

The advertisement for Neals Italian Ices and Specialty Ice Cream features a stylized illustration of a bowl of ice cream in the foreground. In the background, there is a silhouette of a city skyline with a prominent tower. The text "OPEN LATE 7 DAYS" is at the top, and the business name "Neals" is written in a large, cursive font. Below the name, it says "ITALIAN ICES AND SPECIALTY ICE CREAM". At the bottom, there are two addresses and phone numbers: "2826 KIRBY 520-0447" and "5874 WESTHEIMER 974-0771".

Farther Left: Shaun Kilchrist must swallow his pride when he finds that no one will sit with him at lunch.

Farthest Left: "I scrub and I scrub, but I still have ring around the collar," says a timid Natalie Whitlock.

Farther Left: Mindy Gholdston flies the coop, while Julia Weidler remains her down-to-earth self.

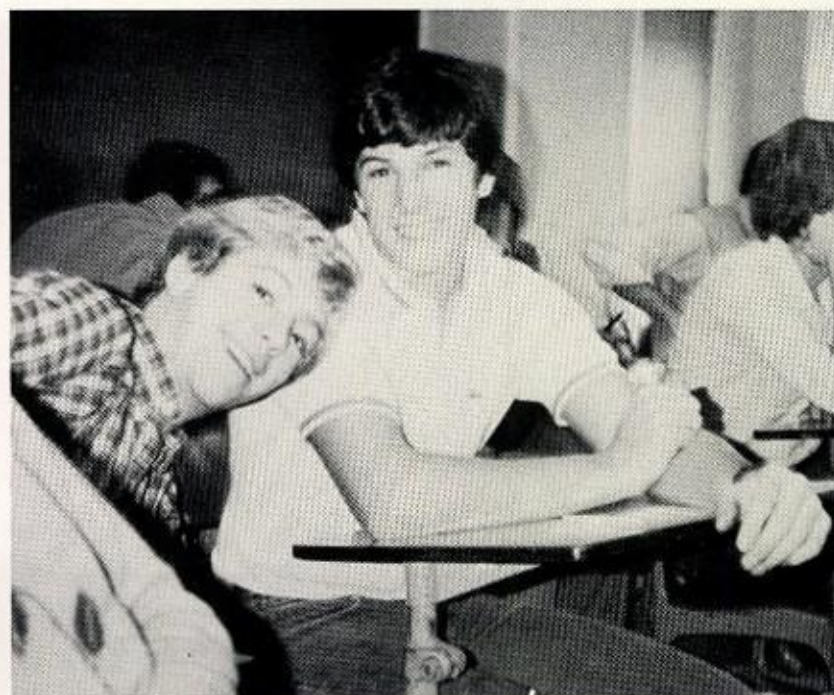

Far Left: Ben Perryman and Bobby Pruitt are astounded that they have finally found their true love — each other.

Farthest Left: "Like wow, man, I went to the dentist today and got a really weird shot," states a mischievous Elizabeth Landry.

Farther Left: Peter Tadros remains in control even though the shark ate his oceanography notebook.

Left: As Ray Alvarez sings "Put Your Head on My Shoulder," Shannon Moore decides to take it literally.

Far Left: "Did you see that guy's face when you asked him about his Saturday night?" asks a laughing Wendy Ward to a curious Jennifer Janes.

Throughout the world changes in thought placed people in new situations where new challenges were met. The increased communist expansion in some countries changed forms of government as well as the lifestyles of people. Poland suffered severe internal problems: the labor strikes, the hunger strikes, the arrests, the lack of supplies drastically altered the pattern of life of its people. The crisis in El Salvador uprooted families and friends. The result — all of these people were wrenched from a familiar course of living and were forced to make a fresh start — a new beginning.

In America situations arose which also shifted the manner of living. An economic "crunch" in the auto industry forced thousands of workers to the unemployment lines. Also, rising interest rates continued to cripple the housing industry. Inflation maintained its course in driving prices up — which in turn augmented the cost of living. Thus, those individuals who were thrust from original modes of life were pressed to make a new beginning.

During the school year many changes which marked new attitudes and ideals occurred in Houston. A new attitude toward city government was reflected when Houstonians elected the first woman mayor in the fall. Many "hi-rise" office buildings were beginning to sprout around the Houston area marking booms in business. Cable television came to many homes in Houston; this displayed how cable TV was a fast-coming major medium of communication. New breakthroughs in Houston's traffic problem were attempted when parts of Westheimer Road were converted to four lanes. Such changes exhibited a new trend of thought spreading throughout the Houston area.

Although the year flew by fast — one moment running into the next, something different was happening every moment. A school-wide beautification project, in which all organizations were allowed to participate, signified a new attitude at Lee. Life at Lee was and will always be exciting with new situations arising at any instant. As old situations fade away, new ones will arrive to take their place — forcing old routines to fade into the mist — forcing a new beginning.

To the Greatest Group Ever Gathered Together:

Well, this is it. The work of some thirty people came together in the form of — SABER '82. This is your work — your record of 1982. Through cropping, laying out (not in the sun!), we produced the SABER of '82. Although beauty sleep was sacrificed, the effort was worth it. We did it! My appreciation of your cooperation can never be fully expressed — you are a very special staff.

Love,
Teresa Weidler
